Reds Cut Germany Controls

Sign Peace Treaty In Eastern Sector And Grant Special Church Privileges

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's Red rulers announced sweeping cutbacks last night in the communization of the Soviet-occupied territory and signed a peace treaty giving the powerful Protestant church big concessions.

Both startling developments — Western quarters figured the Kremlin ordered them—apparently were aimed at making the East zone a more attractive candidate for unification with the more prosperous and free West Germany.

They appeared also designed to quiet the widespread fear and discontent among East Germany's 18 million residents which have sent thousands fleeing each week to the West.

Announcing the communication cutbacks directed by the ruling Politburo of the East German Communist party, Premier Otto Grotewohl said the group "is aiming at the re-establishment of the unity of Germany which requires from both sides concrete measures to bring this about."

The concessions to the Germans from their Red rulers also gave new ammunition to West German opponents of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's campaign to bring Germany's western half into military alliance with the NATO nations.

Some Western officials here expressed belief that the moves were only a prelude to some other important Soviet action, perhaps a Kremlin call for a four - power meeting on Germany.

The Politburo directives provided for:

1. No further extension of the collective farm system.

2. Making state bank credits available to private businessmen. Those who have been forced out of business will be granted permission to set up shop again.

3. Returning confiscated property and full civil rights to persons who come back to East Germany after fleeing to the West.

4. A general amnesty for all prisoners serving one to three years on charges of having damaged the state-owned economy.

5. Issuance of ration cards to all persons. The state recently withheld cards from 250,000 East Germans, regarded as outside the favored Red circle.

The pact to end the bitter church -state battle was announced jointly by Grotewohl and Bishop Otto G. Dibelius, head of the Protestant Church for All Germany. Its nine points, covering most of the main issues, sharply reversed the government's hostile attitude of the past few months.

German Catholic officials welcomed the agreement and said they hoped to obtain a similar promise of relief from Communist persecution.

The church - state pact, announced following a three - hour meeting between Dibelius and Grotewohl, provided:

1. Recognition of the church's right of assembly. A government order requiring the church to announce all its meetings in advance, leaving them liable to a police ban, will be reviewed and relaxed.

2. "No further actions" against the Youth Communites and other church groups. All pupils expelled from schools because they were active in the church outfits, rather than the Red-sponsored Free German Youths, are to be readmitted.

3. Review of court sentences against more than 100 pastors now in jail on charges of opposing the states; "unjust punishments" will be rectified. Confiscated church property will be returned.

4. All state subsidies to the church—long customary in Germany—to be paid promptly.

5. The Ministry of Education to work out a plan restoring religious lessons to Soviet zone classrooms.

6. Elimination of discrimination against advanced students loyal to the church or to church groups.

County's Assessed Value Up $2 Million

More Than $1,000,000 of Increase Comes In Sedalia Real Estate; More Neat Cattle Noted With 50 Pct. Fewer Hogs on Feed

The 1953 assessment on total taxable property—real and personal—in Pettis County, including Sedalia, is almost two million dollars more than it was last year.

More than a million dollars of this is in Sedalia real estate alone. Most of this probably could be attributed to the more than one million dollars worth of building construction that was done in 1952.

Also reflected in the assessment figures just released is an increase in the number of meat cattle, although there was a decrease in the average valuation of the cattle. On the other hand, the number of hogs being raised dropped almost 50 per cent, and the average valuation went up another $3.48.

Biggest change was in poultry, with an increase of 32,949. There was a decrease in average valuation per fowl of 12 cents.

Corporation assessments went up more than $9,000 for a total of $611,657.

Total country acreage was diminished by 70 acres for a total of 421,690, while the city of Sedalia picked it up in the form of 216 lots, most of it probably in the Woodlawn addition west of town. The city now has 8,825 lots assessed at $14,530,590, plus 98 lots belonging to railroads and locally assessed in the amount of $237,165, bringing the total city real estate figure to $14,767,755. Last year the city's total real estate assessment was $13,672,065, which means that this year the assessment was raised $1,095,690.

County acreage for 1953 totaled 421,863, including 243 acres belonging to the railroads, for a total assessment of $15,034,260.

Total real estate assessment for 1953 is $29,802,015, an increase of approximately $1,100,000.

Assessments on power, farm and other machinery was increased approximately $120,000 to a figure of $1,293,580. Household property assessment also went up to $1,274,160, approximately a $138,000 increase.

The number of neat cattle in the county is now 43,369, an increase of almost 3,000. They were assessed at $2,351,130.

The number of hogs dropped to 22,792 from last year's figure of 41,294, with a total valuation of $241,560.

This year's poultry count is 191,165, valued at $73,020.

Other 1953 personal property assessments are as follows: Horses, mares and geldings, $33,130; asses and jennets, $190; mules, $3,130; sheep, $37,050; goats, $30; bee colonies, $220; trucks, airplanes and all other motor vehicles, $4,660,360; all other personal property, $581,870.

The total assessment on taxable property in Pettis County—both real and personal—is $40,963,102. Last year's figure was $39,159,789.12. The new assessment represents an increase of $1,803,312.88.

Mrs. Kemp's Condition Very Bad Following Operation In London

LONDON (AP) — Mayor William E. Kemp of Kansas City said today his wife's condition was "very bad" following a brain tumor operation at London's Maudsley Hospital.

Mayor Kemp is a former resident of La Monte, his native town, and he and his wife are well known there.

"The doctors said this morning that her general condition is a little improved," the mayor said, "but they cannot give me very much hope yet of her coming through this operation."

Mrs. Kemp, who is 59, was operated on Monday by a British specialist. The mayor said that since then Mrs. Kemp has been in "a profound sleep" from which the doctors have been unable to waken her.

Mrs. Kemp became ill on May 20, complaining of impaired vision, while accompanying the mayor on a motor trip to Nottingham, England, where they were guests of the city for three days. The Kansas City couple arrived at Southhampton on May 18 aboard the liner Queen Mary.

Red Horde Cracks UN Line

Estimate 8 to 10 Thousand Commies Attack, Fight Off ROK Counterattacks

SEOUL (AP)—Chinese troops in almost regimental strength cracked through a main-line Allied position in Central Korea today and fought off bitter counterattacks by two South Korean forces.

To the west, troops of the 15th Regiment, U. S. 3rd Division smashed back six Communist attacks northeast of Chorwon as an estimated 8,000 to 10,000 Reds hit American and South Korean positions along the front.

The 3rd Division reported killing and wounding about 600 Chinese.

A briefing officer said two Chinese battalions broke through the main-line position defended by South Koreans, then quickly reinforced to almost regimental strength—perhaps 3,000 men.

In the Outpost Texas area of the East-Central Front Reds attacking along a 2,000-yard sector drove South Koreans from three important hill positions, the Army said.

The breakthrough occurred southeast of Outpost Texas. An Army spokesman said the breakthrough is serious, but that entire area of the battle front is not threatened.

The Reds drove South Koreans from three important hill positions in cracking through the line at several points along a 2,000 yard front, the Army said.

Officers of the 5th South Korean Division estimated the Reds fired 54,000 rounds of artillery and mortar shells during the night and after dawn Thursday.

Some observers said the Chinese appeared to be trying to grab all possible territory before an armistice since ground won now may be a gain in the truce settlement.

Third Division infantrymen hurled back six attacks against Outpost Harry, 10 miles northeast of Chorwon, after hours of close-quarter fighting, at times hand to hand.

The Army said some Communist troops sliced through U. S. lines at a few points, but all were hurled back when 3rd Division troops counterattacked at dawn.

The Reds poured 20,000 artillery and mortar shells into the U. S. lines before and during the assaults. And two Communist tanks pumped high-velocity shells into American positions.

Allied fighter-bombers pounded the Reds along the exploding East-Central Front Thursday morning, following up predawn bomb drops by B26 bombers.

Opening Band Concert At Park Wednesday

Kroencke's Concert Band Wednesday evening presented the first of the season's concerts at Liberty Park, and an exceptionally large crowd enjoyed the program. Picnics were held by many park visitors and the swimming pool attracted many who took plunges into its cooling waters.

Refreshment stands were liberally patronized and the children's playground had its equipment in constant use with lines formed at times awaiting an opportunity to use some favorite amusement device.

Missouri River, Up To Flood Stage, Drops

ST. JOSEPH (AP) — The Missouri River, after cresting at 17.2 feet last night, began falling and this morning had dropped to a stage of 16.9. Flood stage here is 17 feet.

Col. E. E. Browning, area engineer, who said the rise was the result of rains to the north, expects the drop to continue on the basis of upstream reports.

A preliminary survey of the river in this area failed to show any serious damage along the banks.

Rhee Openly Disagrees With Ike---

Korea Won't Accept Truce, ROK Troops Won't Pull Out of Lines

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — South Korea's cabinet reaffirmed yesterday it would refuse to accept the imminent armistice and President Syngman Rhee openly disagreed with President Eisenhower.

Rhee issued a statement saying he could not agree with the Eisenhower's views "that a truce in Korea would be advantageous to this country in many ways."

"We regret very much, however, that we take a view different to friendly advice and that this is unavoidable because a truce on the present terms simply means death to us," Rhee added.

Rhee cautioned his countrymen against "unruly conducts" and "unfriendly attitude" toward allied personnel as the third straight day of anti-armistice demonstrations brought the first report of bloodshed.

South Korean police at Pusan, the temporary capital, said a U. S. soldier slightly wounded two Koreans out of a mob of students which tried to halt an Army bus. Whether the shooting was accidental or deliberate was in dispute.

In the main, the demonstrations of chanting thousands in Seoul and other cities were far more orderly than earlier this week, when crowds charged U. S. Army compounds, threw rocks and shouted "Yankees go home."

The Korean National Assembly called on President Syngman Rhee to curb the government-sponsored demonstrations to avoid "unnecessary violence" between the South Korean people and Allied troops.

Acting Prime Minister Pyun Yung Tai told newsmen after a Cabinet meeting today:

"We cannot and will not accept any part of the armistice terms."

He hinted that ROK troops who man two-thirds of the 155-mile front might not pull back a mile and a quarter to create a buffer zone after an armistice is signed. The U. N. and Reds have agreed to such a zone.

South Korea's lawmakers proposed an alliance with Nationalist China. And while the resolution did not specify the nature of the pact, some assemblymen talked privately of a military alliance.

As thousands of South Koreans shouted slogans and snake-danced through the streets, the Assembly also adopted a resolution calling on the U. N. Command to scrap the present truce plan and start over again.

Some 30,000 chanting Koreans, carrying placards urging that no armistice be signed until Korea is unified, paraded until Korea is Other thousands marched down Seoul's wide avenues in orderly groups, shouting slogans, waving banners and singing.

About 800 students demonstrated in front of the Allied correspondents billets, but there was no violence.

Meanwhile, Rhee welcomed back Gen. Paik Sun Yup, the South Korean Army chief of staff who was ordered to return from the U. S. to take commanding of the nation's 16 American-trained divisions.

Paik and Rhee conferred behind closed doors today after the 32-year-old general talked with South Korean Army, Navy and Air Force commanders.

South Korean police said two Koreans were wounded by a shot fired by an American negro soldier in Pusan. Neither was seriously hurt.

High school and college students —mostly young men—were parading in a downtown street and refused to clear the way for a U. S. Army bus, witnesses said.

Youth Falls Into Lake Of Ozarks, Drowns

WARSAW (AP) — The body of Edward Eugene Stone, 24, Kansas City, Kas., was recovered today from the Lake of the Ozarks after all night dragging operations.

Stone, a groceryman, fell into the water from a boat yesterday while he and two companions were cooling off under a bridge. Andy Anderson, Kansas City, Kas., and Frank Beard, Warsaw, said he slumped suddenly and fell into the water.

Mrs. Belle Bobbitt, Pettis' Oldest Resident, Dies at 103

Mrs. Belle Bobbitt, 103, Pettis County's oldest resident, died at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday at her home in the Dunksburg vicinity, nine miles northwest of LaMonte, where she lived with her daughter, Mrs. Cora Bragunier.

Daughter of William McCoy and Nancy Ruckman Wade, she was born in Highland County, Va., April 16, 1850. In 1865 she came to Missouri with her parents, the long and slow journey being in a covered wagon pulled by an ox team.

When necessary to cross a stream that could not be forded, a ferry boat was used.

Arriving in Missouri, the family located in Cooper County and after her marriage to Thomas Bobbitt the couple came to Pettis County to reside. Mr. Bobbitt died in 1911. Her husband, a native of Pulaski County, Ky., was a Union soldier in the Civil War. After coming to Missouri, the home she had occupied and the land about it was purchased in 1868, was her resident through that intervening term of years.

Mrs. Bobbitt was a member of the Mt. Zion Christian Church and attended worship services regularly as long as health and strength permitted. Due to her advanced age and weakness in declining years, she had been bedfast for over a year. Her infirmities and failing eyesight shut her off in a measure for the world she had enjoyed to fullest through her longevity, but until recent years she read extensively and had kept fully informed of current events.

Radical changes through the

years brought to her memory the hardships and successes of the time when she and her family went through them and often she would recall memorable dates and incidents when friends called at her home.

Besides the daughter, Mrs. Bragunier, she is survived by a son, Dexter Bobbitt, Sweet Springs and numerous other relatives.

Two children preceded her in death, John Elmer, who drowned in 1911 and Foy A., who died in 1938.

The body was taken to the Parker-Moore Funeral Home in La Monte.

Funeral services will be at Mt. Zion Christian Church at 1:30 p. m. Friday with burial in the church cemetery.

'Make It Short'

Sedalia Women Demand Shortest Haircuts Ever

This steady hot weather has stampeded the ladies. They're invading the city's beauty salons for haircuts, and the password is, "Make it short."

The salons don't agree on what to call these new haircuts, but they do agree that the cuts are shorter than ever and that this year's rush for them is unusually large. In fact, many of the salons are booked solid for a month and have been for the past month. Almost all bookings are for haircuts.

One salon offers several different cuts — umbrella, poodle, semi-poodle, winsome, ducktail and coronation — but admits that there seems to be a definitely new style cropping up that doesn't bear any distinct label.

The goal apparently is to walk away from the beauty parlor with a closely sheared neckline, a long cut through the crown with an added choice of a halo of curls. The poodle cut is on its way out because it is short all over. The British coronation has had its effect among the ladies, and they want a crown effect on top.

The younger set, especially those who do a lot of swimming in the summer months, insist upon a tapered neckline. No pin-curls or permanents for them. One salon operator put it this way: "The women have learned to be comfortable as well as glamorous." Another said, "It's just too darned hot."

If you're wondering about that umbrella cut, men, your first reaction probably was correct. It's one that can be worn up or down. When it's down, the edges are curled under. When it's up, it's given a crown effect and turns into a coronation cut.

If you listen closely, you can hear the scissors clicking all over town. One operator said the big problem has been to keep the floors swept clean of newly-cut locks. She had to ask her mother to help do the job in her shop.

Although several name styles are available, the ladies usually don't bother with names. Hot weather doesn't change them. The usual instruction to the beauty operator goes something like this: "I want a cut just like you gave to Flossie Belle. Make it short."

President Lauds GOP Progress

Says Administration Has Made Beginning Toward Winning Free World's Security

MT. RUSHMORE, S. D. (AP) — President Eisenhower told a Republican rally today his administration has made a "good beginning" toward winning free world collective security, modernizing military defense plans, and insuring "equal civil rights to all our citizens."

The President also declared the party, since it took control of the White House and Congress in January, has launched an effective attack on crime and corruption, and has moved on the problem of internal security "with a vigor long overdue."

Eisenhower ticked off those points in listing "some of our forward movement in 10 critical areas of government." In a speech prepared for delivery at the convention of the National Federation of Young Republicans, the President added:

"It would be foolish to pretend these achievements are more than a beginning. But sincerely believe they are a good beginning."

He is in the second of a five-day trip taking him to five states—Minnesota, North and South Dakota, New Hampshire and New York. He plans to return to the White House Sunday night.

Speaking close by the colossal stone images of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt at the Mt. Rushmore National Memorial, Eisenhower also declared that government "must not allow its policies to be caught in the fatal crossfire of a Congress and an executive warring upon one another." he added:

"Such a condition is not going to prevail if it is within the power of this administration to prevent it. For our very form of government is in peril unless each branch willingly accepts and discharges its own clear responsibilities—and respects the rights and responsibilities of others."

1. In foreign affairs, "we have dedicated our party resolutely to a policy seeking to strengthen and secure friendship and co-operation among all nations loving freedom and resisting tyranny. . . . We have worked not only to eliminate in the non-Communist world those conditions that invite the propaganda of the Communist—but also to encourage the strains and stresses within the ranks of the 800 millions in the Soviet world now denied the hopes and rewards of a free life."

2. "We have reviewed and revised military defense plans to meet realistically the needs of our times. . . . They are conceived — with care and logic—in the hope that even the Soviets can be persuaded to see the folly of counting upon the success of aggression or, indeed, of depending solely upon armaments for security."

3. "We have freed our economy of needless, stifling controls—and at the same time have taken effective steps to assure the well-being of all our people."

4. "We have set about making (government) smaller rather than bigger, finding things it can stop doing rather than new things for it to do. . . . The federal payroll is already smaller by more than 50,000 individuals which means a saving of no less than 180 million dollars per years."

5. "We have set about making government not only more economical but more efficient in its operations, by speeding reorganization of whole departments."

6. "We have created a new Cabinet office — the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. For the first time the problem of the needy and the sick, the aged and the helpless are the charge of a major department of the federal government."

7. "We are helping to foster the revitalization of local and state government. We have instituted a complete review of federal - state relations . . . and we have determined the disposition of the tidelands oil with action that, in my deep conviction, recognizes fairly the constitutional rights of federal and state governments."

8. "We have attacked the problem of internal security with a vigor long overdue." The President said the responsibility of keeping subversives and security risks out of federal jobs "is now being met" by the executive branch "without resort to un-American methods."

9. "We have, through a thoroughly renovated Department of Justice, begun effectively to attack crime and corruption."

10. "We have taken substantial steps toward insuring equal civil rights to all our citizens regardless of race or creed or color. . . . Action has been taken in Army camps and schools. And in the District of Columbia, before the bar of the Supreme Court, the attorney general has successfully appealed for the upholding of laws barring segregation in all public places in our national capital."

Watch That Glass

A word to the wise is sufficient, so better take that thermometer of yours and get it in a cool place Otherwise it will blow its top and this winter you won't be able to know how cold it really is. We've already—today—'busted' the heat record for 1951 and have got within two drops of sweat of the 1952 high mark of 104. If you can recall, '51 didn't have a day with 100 and here 'tis '53 with summer not even here yet and we've watched that little Mr Mercury crawl up to 102.

HOT AND MUGGY

Continued hot and humid tonight and Friday. High Friday in the upper 90s. Low tonight near 75.

The temperature at 7 a.m. was 75; 98 at 1 p.m., and 100 at 2 p.m.

Stage at Lake of the Ozarks —7.0 fall .3.

Crossroads Comment

By G. H. S.

Whether you're a politician, a family man, or a business man, whenever you begin to feel you are so important that the circle within which you operate may have a hard time getting along without you, just remember this:

If the body of an average man were squeezed into a perfect solid, the resulting matter would be so small that it would just be visible under a microscope.

To The Others It's Too Hot---

Only Two Sedalians Admit Having Cool Summer Jobs

Only two people in Sedalia out of many that were approached Thursday would admit that they had cool jobs. The present heat wave that has hit Missouri and Sedalia has brought the usual complaints of how uncomfortable it is to even relax, let alone work.

It was not difficult at all to find many who were ready to tell how hot their jobs were.

Miss Laverne Thomas, 910 East 14th, who has been employed with the State Fair Floral Company nearly two months, said that working under the glass in the greenhouse in the morning and potting flowers in the afternoon in a temperature of 110 degrees was her idea of a warm job.

Her solution to the heat problem is "don't think about getting hot" and indulge in soft drinks and ice cream.

Working in a similar temperature as a grill and fountain attendant at Garst Drive In is Benny Walter, 1004 East 13th, a Smith-Cotton High School student who has worked there for about one year.

Benny said the work was plenty hot even with an exhause fan to pull the hot air out from the grill He said the heat hit him before going out through the fan.

His solution: stand in front of a fan when you can and drink lots of water and soft drinks.

Sometimes air conditioning serves to cool a job, but again sometimes it doesn't. Mrs. Evelyn Bull, 600 West Second, who is a beauty operator at the Cuma-Dorothy Beauty Salon, says the the beauty salon is cool and actually very comfortable until she starts working around the machines and over hot water, then the temperature gets a little too warm.

Fans have come into their own already this summer, but they have done little to cool off the 115 degrees temperature in the back of the Stylebrook Dry Cleaners.

Lewis Fullerton, 1112 South Ware, who is the operator of Stylebrook says that the front of his shop is fairly cool do to a large fan located at the side of the pressing equipment, but in the back room, which is used for sorting and loading, it often reaches 115 degrees.

Most of these people, however, agree that when they do leave work the change of temperature is for the best and often it is 20 degrees cooler.

There were two people, though, who admitted to having cool jobs.

Temperature Drops Fast

A relief from the heat was in the making when, at 2:45 o'clock, a northerly breeze came in over Sedalia. From 2:55 to 3 p. m. the temperature dropped from 95 to 85 degrees.

A report from the Associated Press was to the effect that the temperature had dropped 17 degrees at Mexico, Mo., in about a 15-minute period, due to the cool breezes. This drop took place at about 2 p. m.

Reports of a wind storm on a line between Holden and Columbia was checked, but no information regarding such a storm could be verified through calls to Holden, Warrensburg, Hughesville, Otterville, Clifton City and thru the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. ,the Central Missouri Electric Cooperative Inc., and the Missouri Public Service Co., as well as a call to Columbia.

Reward Offered for Information---

Nothing Heard from or About LaMonte Man Since Dec. 29th

No information has been found regarding the disappearance or the whereabouts of Robert H. "Bob" Wade, 19, missing since Dec. 29, 1952. The youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wade, La Monte, was last seen about 11:15 p. m. the night of his disappearance at 10th and Missouri in Sedalia.

Every effort has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Wade to locate their son, to learn some information as to why he might have disappeared, or where he may have gone. The State Highway Patrol has had the youth listed as missing in their files and from time to time checked various leads only to learn they had no connection with Wade.

He was a student at the Central Missouri State College in Warrensburg, apparently was doing all right in school. His home life was normal and that afternoon he took care of some errands for his sister and told his parents he would be a little late in getting home that night. His personal belongings were not disturbed. He had some money there which was also left undisturbed, indicating that he had made no plans to leave home or disappear as he has.

New England Seeking 18 Still Missing

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—Rehabilitation operations were in full swing today on the second day after New England's worst tornado cut a swath of death and destruction through Central Massachusetts.

And as steps were taken to speed the appropriation of federal and state funds and the payment of insurance policies, the stricken area counted this toll:

Dead—82, with 2 still unidentified.

Missing—13.

Injured—about 800.

Homeless—about 7,000.

Damage — Estimated by Gov. Christian A. Herter at 75 million dollars.

Early today, President Eisenhower designated the stricken region as a major disaster area, qualifying it for federal aid.

Rescue workers, meanwhile, continued their search through the wreckage of hundreds of homes and business establishments in 12 communities for more bodies.

Some 2,000 national guardsmen patrolled the devastated area to prevent looting and keep unauthorized persons away.

Col. William F. Bigelow, military commander of the Worcester National Guard area, imposed a strict 6 p. m. curfew law in the area after reporting, "There's been looting. Just how much we don't know."

All but pass holders, police and firefighters have been ordered to keep away from the patrolled area after the curfew.

Col. Bigelow told his troops: "Keep everyone else out, even if you have to shoot to do it."

Meanwhile, there were indications today in Minot, N. D., where President Eisenhower is now, that he may visit the Worcester area Saturday, when he is scheduled to fly from Rapid City, S. D., to Hanover, N. H.

U. S. Rep. Philbin (D-Mass) has asked Congress to appropriate 25 million dollars for use in the Worcester area.

Congressmen Say It's Good for Burns---

B-N-G Tyroinase, Developed In Chop Suey Kitchen, Praised

WASHINGTON (AP)—You've heard of "wonder drugs" extracted from bread mould (penicillin) and from the bile of oxen (cortisone). Now comes a new medical product discovered, of all places, in the mung bean sprout juice vat of a chop suey kitchen.

B-N-G tyrosinase is the name approved by Food and Drug officials for this new substance. It's still undergoing tests by the doctors, but several members of Congress say there's nothing like it for the treatment of burns.

It's a little unusual for a medical discovery to be touted by congressmen rather than disclosed by learned writers for scientific journals. But Rep. Wickersham (D-Okla), who first called his colleagues' attention to it several weeks ago, says B-N-G tyrosinase is a highly unusual drug.

So does Rep. McMillan (D-SC), the latest House member to report on B-N-G tyrosinase in the Congressional Record. McMillan said it's been used on his young son and "worked as a magic."

"I have never seen any type of medicine that could compare with it in combatting second and third-degree burns," declared the South Carolinian.

Here's the story, as the Record gives it, of B-N-G tyrosinase's discovery:

One day in 1944 two men named Zaremba were boiling down scraps to make hog food in a chop suey canning plant they operated in Oak Lawn, Ill. A boiling vat exploded, scalding nearly a dozen employes.

While waiting for ambulances, fellow employes applied the only liquid they could lay hands on—mung bean sprout juice, extracted from a bushy annual legume and much fancied by chop suey eaters.

Doctors in Chicago hospitals, the account goes on, were astonished to find no blistering, no pain and no shock in any of the scalded patients.

So medical science took over and extracted the healing substance now known as B-N-G tyrosinase from the mung bean sprout juice.

The interested congressmen—none of whom is known to represent a mung bean sprout juice producing district—give case after case of seemingly remarkable recoveries after treatment with B-N-G tyrosinase. One is an Arlington, Va., boy burned so badly his skin came off with his T-shirt. One application of the new drug and he stopped crying, slept well that night and wanted to go out playing the next day.

McMillan says the University of Illinois is making tests of B-N-G tyrosinase now.

"I am delighted to learn," he adds, "that some of the armed forces are considering using this medicine. I believe that it will prove to be a lifesaver to thousands of veterans who receive burns while in battle or in service."

The Japanese believe they have the world's oldest independent nation.

Finds Married Woman a 'Shade' More Beautiful

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—What's different between married and single women?

For one thing, married women appear a shade more beautiful, says a Florida State University marriage and family specilist who spent a year studying the subject.

Dr. Richard H. Klemer adds, however, that he found the most beautiful individuals in the single group.

Dr. Klemer used two carefully matched groups of Florida women, one single and one married, between the ages of 30 and 39. The women were selected from lists of clubwomen and college alumnae in Tallahassee, Jacksonville and Miami.

"More than one-eighth of the women in the single group seemed to me to be more attractive than any of the women in the married sample," said Dr. Klemer, who's married himself.

The most important of his findings, he related, was that the single group differed significantly from the married group in the socio-economic status of their childhood homes.

Many more of the single women reported lower class backgrounds, even though all the women in the study were college graduates.

"This may indicate that girls from poor families who wish to climb socially by scholastic efforts have more trouble in the marriage market," he observed.

Dr. Klemer found the single women had had fewer dates, steady boy friends and love experience in late adolescence than did the married.

Furthermore, he found the single women seemed more often to have the characteristics associated with being both "too timid" and "too independent."

Officers Race To Complete An Armistice

MUNSAN (AP)—Allied and Red staff officers raced today to complete an armistice draft as South Korea boiled with new demonstrations and a threat to disregard any truce.

Three of the five U. N. Command negotiators left this base camp temporarily as lower level staff officers worked on details of the truce document in secret sessions at Panmunjom.

With the full-dress meetings in recess subject to call by either side, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., senior Allied delegate, visited the U. S. 3rd Division at the battlefront and Rear Ad. John C. Daniel and Brig. Gen. Egbert Glenn went to Tokyo.

Any major armistice action requires their presence. They could speed back within a few hours.

Meanwhile, South Korea balked more and more in its "no unification, no armistice" stand.

As thousands of demonstrators tramped the streets of Seoul and Yung Tai hinted that South Korean troops would refuse to withdraw from the 2½-mile-wide buffer zone to be set up between Allies and Reds in a truce. After a special Cabinet meeting, Pyun said South Korea "cannot and will not accept any part of the armistice terms."

President Syngman Rhee, in a message to the South Korean people, said a truce under current terms means "death to South Korea." He said he had been explaining this point to the other Allied nations and, "we intend to do so continually."

However, Rhee warned his people against "unruly conduct" toward U. N. personnel during "this time of national crisis" and said any such unfriendly acts would be subject to stern punishment.

The 78-year-old president said he could not agree with statements by President Eisenhower that "a truce in Korea will be advantageous to this country in many ways."

"We regret it very much," he said "that we take a different view to his friendly advice and that this is unavoidable because a truce on present terms simply means death to us.

"We have been explaining this point to our allies and we intend to do so continually."

Before Rhee spoke, 30,000 chanting Koreans paraded through Pusan, the temporary capital, carrying placards urging: "Give us unification or give us death" and "Drive away the Chinese Reds."

In Seoul, other thousands tramped the streets in orderly groups, waving banners, shouting and singing. About 1,200 students demonstrated in front of the Allied correspondents billets, but there was no violence.

In Washington, worries eased that some of the five nations might withdraw as members of a repatriation commission to control some 46,000 Red war prisoners who refuse to go home. The commission would take custody of the POWs for 90 days while Red agents made "explanations" and "assurances" in an effort to win them back to their Communist homelands.

Sweden said it would serve and the two Communist nations—Poland and Czechoslovakia—were considered likely to accept or they would never have been nominated by the Communists.

Swiss Foreign Minister Max Petitpierre said at Bern his country "could be induced" to serve in order to avoid delay in an armistice. This appeared to reverse a previous announcement that Switzerland would not accept unless the South Koreans approved the truce.

In London, India's Prime Minister Nehru said India is ready to serve but would have to reconsider if South Korean troops pull out of the U. N. Command.

At Panmunjom, the staff officers split into two groups to speed their work. Each met for almost two hours in the morning, took an hour off for lunch and then went back into session in the afternoon.

No announcement was made on the nature of the discussions but one group, headed by Marine Col. James C. Murray of Seville, O., was reported working on a revision of the demarcation line across Korea that will divide the belligerents in a truce.

The other group, headed by Air Force Col. Don O. Darrow of Tacoma, Wash., was believed hammering out the details of the prisoner of war exchange to be known as "Operation Big Switch."

AF Issues Recall For C-54s Leased To Commercial Lines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force today issued a recall order for all the 37 C-54 transport planes it has leased to commercial airlines.

Headquarters here said the Air Materiel Command at Wright-Patterson Field, Ohio, telegraphed notices of the intent to end C-54 lease agreements.

The air force gave no explanation of the recall other than "we need the airplanes."

However, the operators were advised that they would be informed by letter, of delivery schedules and other details.

One airline said it had been ordered to get its leased C-54s ready for inspection immediately, so that they could be returned to the Air Force in August.

An Air Force spokesman said this did not apply generally. He said the planes would be called back gradually.

House Committee Recommends Billion-Dollar Cut for AEC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today recommended a slash of $1,171,389,000 from new funds requested by former President Truman for the Atomic Energy Commission, the Selective Service System, the Veterans Administration and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

It sent to the House floor for debate next week a bill to appropriate $5,284,369,664 for these four agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1.

This is 18 per cent less than Truman requested in his January budget and about 6 per cent below the revised budget of President Eisenhower.

Heaviest reduction was the $535,008,000 chopped from the Truman request for the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC). All but about 38 million was trimmed from the Truman budget by the Eisenhower administration before the committee acted.

The committee recommended six million dollars more than Truman had requested and exceeded the Eisenhower estimates by 31 million in its allotment for maintenance and operation of veterans' hospitals. The big cuts in the Veterans' Administration budget were in funds for readjustment benefits and for pensions and compensations.

Here's how the committee said the new money should be split up:

Atomic Energy Commission: $1,057,781,000; Truman asked $1,592,789,000; Eisenhower $1,096,000,000; the AEC was given $4,124,621,500 this year.

Selective Service: $29,882,400; Truman requested $34,400,000. Eisenhower about 30 million. Congress gave the agency $36,772,000 this year.

Veterans Administration: $4,008,335,264; Truman asked $4,574,214,664; Eisenhower $4,295,000,000. This year the VA was given $4,144,703,960.

Tennessee Valley Authority: $188,371,000; Truman requested $254,355,000; Eisenhower $190,822,000; TVA was given $336,027,000 this year.

The committee turned down all requests for the purchase of new automobiles. It said the agencies can get along with what they have.

Heavy cuts from Truman-requested funds for the AEC included 20 million in the weapons program, $15,700,000 in the source and fissionable materials program, and 22½ million in the reactor development program.

The entire $26,565,000 requested by Truman for the AEC bilogy and medicine program was approved. But his request for $16,282,000 for security investigations was trimmed to $13,112,000.

The VA compensation and pension budget was given $2,246,291,000 a cut of 300 million from the Truman figures. The committee said the cut was based on a recalculation of needs and could be restored if necessary.

Two Cool Jobs

Their problem, of course, is fighting the heat after leaving their comfortable position.

Chester O'Bannon, 1323 East Broadway, a Smith-Cotton student who is employed at the Sedalia Ice and Cold Storage Company, says that it is quite comfortable working in the ice rooms which have a temperature of 28 degrees.

Chester's solution to the problem is "try to stay in there as long as you can."

Mrs. Mary Leftwich, 1811 South Lamine, says that the coolness of Flower's Dry Goods Company is a wonderful climate in which to work. It seems that the problem of hot weather comes when she leaves work. Her solution is to use fans when the heat becomes almost unbearable and to have plenty of soft drinks on hand.

Most of these people have had their own solutions to the weather, but whether they work or not they all agree that at least the smothering temperatures of the past few days have provided much for conversation.

Cooper, Among 10 'Most Wanted', Arrested Today

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gordon Lee Cooper, who was placed on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted fugitives exactly a month ago, was seized by FBI agents today while in a parked car.

The 38-year-old Cooper offered no resistance but had a loaded sawed-off shotgun on the seat beside him when the FBI agents closed in on him in the 3300 block of North 20th Street.

Some stolen Illinois license plates also were found in the machine, which Cooper said he stole in Detroit, Mich., the FBI said.

The FBI agents said Cooper, whose early years were spent at Gideon, Mo., came to St. Louis recently from Michigan. He told FBI agents he had been employed by an automobile manufacturing company in Michigan for the past few months.

The FBI would not disclose how the agents located the 150-pound fugitive, who carries bullet scars on his legs and chest.

"He had been the subject of rather intensive investigation for several months," an agent said. "All we can say is that the search centered on him in St. Louis last night and early today."

Cooper was taken to FBI headquarters here to await a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Edwin Bean. The FBI said he probably would be turned over to state authorities at Poplar Bluff, Mo., where he is wanted for breaking out of the Butler County jail and beating and robbing a deputy sheriff on duty there on May 27, 1952.

Commissioner bean fixed bond at $10,000 and Cooper was taken to the city jail pending his return to Poplar Bluff.

As he was being taken to the commissione's office, Cooper objected to being handcuffed. He cursed, struggled with two federal agents, and finally wept.

In the jail break, Copper and another prisoner slugged the deputy with a home-made blackjack and then robbed him. The other prisoner was captured but Cooper made his getaway in a pickup truck later found abandoned in Tennessee.

Cooper was held in the jail at Poplar Bluff on a charge of robbing the post office at Painton, Mo., in Stoddard County, where he once lived.

Slender and wiry with brown curly hair, Cooper was described by the FBI as "embittered against society" but with an ability to make friends easily when he wishes to do so.

Cooper replaced Fred W. Bowerman on the "most wanted" list after Bowerman was fatally wounded April 24 in a gun battle with police during an attempted robbery of the Southwest Bank of St. Louis.

Cooper's criminal career dates back to 1931 when he was sentenced to a reformatory in Missouri for car theft. He has also been imprisoned at the U. S. reformatory at El Reno, Okla., the U. S. penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind., the Arkansas state penitentiary and the Missouri penitentiary for car theft, probation violations, grand larceny and forgery.

Queen Is 27 Today; Causes Traffic Jam

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II officially celebrated her 27th birthday today—and caused one of the biggest traffic jams in memory.

First aid teams attended several hundred persons who fainted or were injured in the dense crush around the Horse Guards Parade Ground where the Queen, seated with easy grace on a horse named Winston, took the salute at the trooping of the color—one of Britain's most stirring spectacles.

The Queen was born on April 21, 1926, but as with previous British monarchs, the commonwealth and empire celebrates her birthday officially in June. England's weather is likely to be at its best then.

Says Profits Tax Extension Is Doubtful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland of California, acting Republican senate leader, today tabbed extension of the excess profits tax—one of President Eisenhower's major requests to Congress—as definitely doubtful.

Knowland omitted mention of it in a forecast of prospective Senate actions this session. Asked by reporters about the omission, Knowland said the tax extension was "not necessarily dead."

But it is tied up in the House Ways and Means Committee, Knowland observed, adding that he was "frankly not certain" it would emerge from either House or Senate action.

Knowland said if the bill did come out of committee he thought it stood a better than 50-50 chance of enactment.

The tax is a special levy on corporations, intended to drain into the U. S. Treasury the major part of any extra profits they may make as a result of business stimulation from government defense spending.

It is now due to expire June 30.

Knowland shouldered active floor leadership of the Senate GOP forces yesterday, taking over the job from Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) who is suffering from a painful hip ailment and has been ordered by his physicians to cut down on his activity.

Knowland's appraisal of the legislative outlook was made in an address to the Machinery and Allied Products Institute's annual conference here.

Saying the Senate still hopes to complete its work and adjourn by July 31, Knowland predicted passage of these portions of President Eisenhower's legislative program:

Extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act, mutual security administration legislation, Hawaiian statehood, the simplification of customs, wheat shipments to Pakistan, and the 12 appropriation bills.

This listing omitted revision of the Taft-Hartley labor law and broadening of social security as well as extension of the excess profits tax.

Noting these omissions, reporters at the meeting asked whether they should be considered dead for this session.

Knowland said none was "necessarily dead" and went on to make his specific remarks about the tax legislation.

Taft Gives Up Floor Leader Job, Not Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) has given up his front-row duties as Republican floor leader in the Senate, but few of his colleagues expect the forced stepping down to lessen his influence.

"Bob may swing even more weight now that he will have fewer routine duties," said one top GOP senator who asked not to be named.

Explaining that his physicians had ordered him to take it easy and undergo intensive treatments for a "serious" hip injury, Taft announced yesterday he is turning over the day-to-day floor leadership to Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), although the Ohioan will continue to retain the title.

Knowland is chairman of the Republican Policy Committee.

Eisenhower, now in the Midwest, sent Taft a message of cheer from Minneapolis yesterday.

"I deeply regret this unfortunate development and hope that you will take every step to restore your health," the President's telegram said. "The country needs such as you. We shall look forward to your early return to full vigor."

The majority leadership entails almost constant attendance on the floor while the Senate is in session. The man who holds it is primarily responsible for guiding the administration program through the Senate.

Taft said medical experts tell him he has a lesion or impairment of the left hip bone that will require weeks or months of treatments and less activity.

He said he will continue to attend White House legislative conferences, Senate Republican strategy sessions and committee duties, unless the medical treatments interfere.

House Committee Cuts 300 Million Dollars From Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee today tentatively cut 300 million dollars from the first half of President Eisenhower's $5,474,000,000 foreign aid bill.

The committee also tentatively adopted an amendment which would withhold more than a billion dollars of military aid to Europe unless the European Defense Community is ratified.

Chairman Chiperfield (R-Ill) announced the committee had voted to cut 100 millions each from funds earmarked for military aid to Europe, military aid to the Near East and defense support for Europe.

Bill Permits Resorts to Fix Small Lake Dams

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Phil M. Donnelly signed into law today a bill to prevent flood damage to little recreation and resort lakes in Missouri.

Carrying an emergency clause, it went into effect immediately so owners of such dams could make needed repairs at once.

There are a lot of little dams on Missouri streams that once were used to impound water of milling or power operations. But in these days the mills no longer are necessary. Still the years-old lakes provide good boating, swimming and fishing and the owners of many such sites have built up resorts or recreational properties.

The old law wouldn't let them repair the dams unless they were being used for milling or water power. The new law was passed this year so the now sagging dams could be repaired before floods wash them out entirely.

The governor also signed these other bills that become effective Aug. 29. They would:

Let third and fourth class cities levy a special tax of up to 60 cents a front foot for sprinkling, oiling or maintaining streets.

Permit destruction of old records of Missouri's 40-year-old Public Service Commission, a utility regulating body.

Yesterday the governor signed a bill setting up a "Little Hoover" commission to correct any faults it finds in the operation of Missouri's big government.

The bill calls for a 12-member commission, including four house members, four senators and four citizens appointed by the governor.

Donnelly recommended such a study in his inaugural address. He was governor his first time back in 1945 when the present departments of the state's governments were set up. They're still in the same shape but Donnelly said he thought som improvements could be made after a careful study.

He said the reorganization commission probably could find ways to increase governmental efficiency, eliminate duplication of work and cut the cost.

Heat Wave Kills Three; East May Get Some Relief

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri's current heat wave has claimed three lives.

One man died at Kansas City. A soldier succumbed to the heat at Ft. Leonard Wood, and a woman was fatally stricken in St. Louis.

More of the same brand of weather is forecast today for the western part of the state, but the east may have some relief in slightly lower temperatures and few widely scattered thundershowers.

The Ft. Leonard Wood heat victim was Pvt. Frederick D. Collins, Flint, Mich., who collapsed as he was returning to his company barracks yesterday afternoon. The death was officially attributed to sunstroke. Wednesday's unofficial high at the post was 98.

John Francis Dwyer, 57, died here yesterday after he collapsed of heat prostration.

Mrs. Jennie Tomek, 78, died in St. Louis three hours after she was stricken.

Among the readings in the state yesterday were St. Louis 100, Kansas City and Joplin 99, West Plains 98, St. Joseph 97, Rolla, Springfield and Columbia 96 and Kirksville 87.

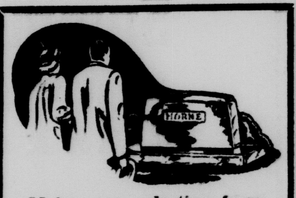

Moderation of eastern Missouri's temperatures are due to a cool front which has moved in from the Great Lakes. This morning it extended from east of St. Joseph to the southeast corner of the state, but the weather bureau sees little chance of it moving any farther west.

A Kansas Man Becomes Ill On Train Going Through Town

Edwin Craig, Clay Center, Kan., was admitted to Bothwell Hospital Wednesday afternoon after becoming ill on the Missouri Pacific Eagle, which arrived here at 1:15 p.m.

The stricken man was treated at the hospital by Dr. C. D. Osborne.

Says A-bombs Might Cause Tornado Series

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Madden (D-Ind) said today he will push his proposal for a congressional investigation into whether atomic tests in Nevada have anything to do with the tornadoes striking the country at a possible record rate.

The weather bureau, the Atomic Energy Commission and some key congressmen insist there is no evidence of any connection.

But two senior members of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee—Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) and Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa)—said a public inquiry might help clarify the question. However, both added in separate interviews that atomic scientists have assured them atomic tests do not change the weather.

Madden called on the House Armed Services committee yesterday to conduct a formal investigation, since the Nevada tests are being conducted by the Army.

Chairman Short (R-Mo), however, told newsmen the question is beyond the committee's authority. But he has not yet answered Madden's letter requesting the probe.

Madden said in an interview he would ask the joint Atomic Energy Committee to make the investigation if the Armed Services group turns him down.

The Bureau said 249 tornadoes have been reported so far this year, possibly a record for the 35 years in which such counts have been kept. The average in the past 35 years has been 109 tornadoes for the first six months of each.

However, a weather bureau spokesman said its improved tornado reporting service may partly account for the big total recorded this year.

Milton L. Blanc, chief of the bureau's local and special services section, said there was no possible connection between the atomic tests and the tornadic outburst.

Compared with the natural force of tornadoes, Blanc said, an atomic explosion is "a small thing."

The AEC said it is working closely with the weather bureau to determine the effects of the atomic experiments. A spokesman said the AEC is convinced the Nevada tests had no influence on the weather.

"We wouldn't be holding the tests if we thought they would create tornadoes," he added.

House Takes Up Foreign Aid Cut Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee's 162 million dollar slice off President Eisenhower's foreign aid bill was relatively minor, but its House counterpart takes up the knife today.

The Senate group, finishing its work yesterday, left the total in the authorization measure at $5,312,000,000. This was considered a first-round victory for the administration in view of the big slashes demanded by some lawmakers.

The figure compared with $6,001,947,000 voted last year.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee begins its closed-door votes today with a big bundle of amendments, including a number of cuts, already offered.

Some of the House group's members have talked of slashes running as high as two billion dollars but there was evidence these would be strongly resisted.

Chairman Chiperfield (R-Ill) of the House group said he did not believe the military items, which comprise the bulk of the measure, should be reduced much if at all. He said economic aid could stand some paring.

Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) of the Senate committee told newsmen he thought the figures approved by his committee should have a "pretty good" chance of winning final Senate concurrence.

He said the Eisenhower administration already had cut the foreign aid program more than two billion dollars under what former President Truman proposed for fiscal 1954 starting July 1.

After this bill is finally sent to the White House, a second one carrying the money must make the trip through the appropriations committees and another siege of floor debate.

The senators did not cut any of the major military or economic items allocated to specific areas of the world. The only big reduction they voted was 150 million dollars in a proposed 250 million global special weapons program, an administration innovation designed to help America's allies take advantage of the newest advances in modernizing their military equipment.

The Senate committee went along with the bill's shift in emphasis to the Far East. As approved, 50 per cent of the money would go to Europe and 34 per cent to Asia and the Pacific.

Last year Europe got 73 per cent, Asia and the Pacific 13 per cent.

The senators also did not disturb the heavy allotments in the bill designed to build up the free world's air power.

The $2,179,000,000 of military aid to Europe in the measure includes 282 million for the U. S. share of a 560 million program to build 1,689 jet fighters in England and France for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

There is a separate 100 million item for aircraft production in Great Britain to enable that country build up its Air Force.

Douglas Asks Cut Of $33 Million In Postal Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) asked the Senate to lop $33,450,000 today off funds for postal operations in the coming year.

His amendment was offered to a House-passed bill carrying $3,444,145,000 to run the Treasury and Post Office Departments in the new fiscal year starting July 1.

Douglas told the Senate yesterday he was "grievously disappointed" with the measure and two Republican senators, Williams of Delaware and Dworshak of Idaho, also said they had hoped for deeper cuts.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), handling the bill for the Senate Appropriations Committee, said it had been pared 3½ per cent under the budget estimates of former President Truman.

The House bill was approved without change by the Senate committee. Capitol veterans were unable to recall when, if ever, this had happened before.

The bill allocated $2,229,450,000 to the Post Office Department for postal operations.

"The Post Office is notorious for its inefficiencies and we should force improvements," Douglas said. Among other things, he suggested consolidation of rural mail routes and "more letter carriers on bicycles and tricycles."

Dworshak and Williams turned critical eyes on 22 million dollars for general administration—the exact amount voted for the current year.

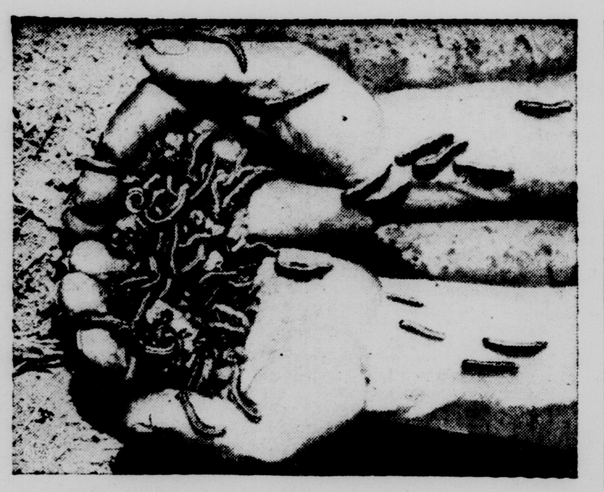

McCarthy said this item was two millions less than Truman had recommended, and that increasing population adds to the department's workload.

VILLAINY ON HAND—These hands hold a mess of the ugly army worms that are currently ruining crops and grazing lands in Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Maryland and New York as well as Pettis County, Missouri. The destroyer is shown in the drawing below. It gets its name from its habit of marching in great numbers in search of food. After its destructive role is finished, it retires into a cocoon, later to emerge as a moth.

Insect Situation for Week Told By MU Entomologist

Extension Entomologist

Army Worms

Army worms are still causing heavy damage in several counties in the northern two-thirds of the state. In the northern part of the state you can expect damage to increase during the coming week. Both parasites and disease have increased tremendously, however, and it looks as though both will be a big help.

From here on out, it will be very difficult to decide which of the fields should and should not be sprayed. Before using insecticides, check closely both parasites and disease.

Cutworms

Several different species of cutworms have broken out all over the state, and they have been causing much more total damage than army worms.

The one causing the greatest damage on corn is the black cutworm. Normally this worm is worst on bottom land, but for some reason this year it has not only hit later than usual, but also is as heavy on upland as it is in the bottoms.

A large portion of the worms we have seen are still relatively small. They are growing fast, but some will be around for 10 days or more. This means some replanted fields may be damaged as soon as the new corn comes up.

Usually this worm works above the soil. Probably because of dry weather, and cloddy and loose soil this year it has been working largely below the soil surface. This has made control unusually hard.

Following a rain, you may find these worms will start working on top of the ground. When the worms work in this manner damage is not as serious as when the plants are cut off near the roots. Much of the small corn cut at the ground line will survive and put out new growth.

As for what to do in the way of controlling the black cutworm, there's no sure-fire cure, but this is the best we know to try:

If the field must be replanted, leave the old stand and plant the middles if there is enough moisture to get away with not discing the seedbed. If weeds are a problem, you might tear them out with a rotary hoe and still leave the old corn. The old corn won't completely protect the new growth but every old stalk cut is is just one more that won't have to be cut out of the new planting. Watch the replanted corn closely and if the worms start damaging it, spray immediately.

If you catch the damage before the stand is hurt enough to need replanting, spray with texaphene at two pounds per acre, chlordane at 1½ pounds, or dieldrin at 5 to 8 ounces per acre. Use a field sprayer and plug off every other nozzle. Direct the spray on the row, adjust the boom so that you spray a strip about 12 to 16 ins. wide. Don't spray the middles.

If the worms are working at the ground line, you should get control within about 72 hours. If they are working below the soil it will take longer. A shower after the spray is put on will speed up control on those working underground.

Farmers should not expect too much too quickly from spraying for this insect. It takes time to get a kill and corn will continue to be damaged for some time following spraying. Even so, it's the best we know to do.

On test plots we sprayed, the worms were definitely being killed. Some corn was still being cut, although a large portion of the worms were obviously getting sick. When you hold a normal, healthy worm in your hand, it will immediately curl up. If you try to straighten it out, it will curl right back. One affected by the insecticide may try to curl up at first but will be limp enough that you can straighten it out on its back and it will stay that way.

Varigated cutworms are heavy in some legume fields. They seem to be doing damage primarily in fields that have been cut for hay. Where there are a lot of these worms, they keep the new crop nibbled back.

You can always tell these worms by the small yellow or orange spots in the center of the back. Each segment of the fore part of the body will have one spot on it. None of the other cutworms have this marking. During the day, you will find most of the worms hiding under any old hay or trash that might be in the field.

If the worms are numerous to need control, spray with 1¾ lbs. of texaphene. You should get control within 72 hours.

The cotton cutworm or yellow-striped cutworm is showing up in some fields, but so far we have not seen any fields heavily enough infested to justify control. This is a brightly colored worm with a wide yellow or orange stripe on each side. It has a black spot inside this yellow line, near the front of the body.

This worm works entirely above the ground, and does not hide in the soil during the day. You can usually find them inside the corn plant showing damage. If they become numerous enough to need control, use the same dosage given for varigated cutworm.

English Grain Aphid

In several areas including Pettis County, English grain aphids are getting serious on small grain. This aphid is working entirely on the heads of grain, and when numerous enough, will cause shriveling of the grain and reduction in test weight.

Most grain fields have some of these aphids. If you can find an average of about 25 aphids per head, plan to spray for them. But be sure the infestation is uniform throughout the field — not an infested head here and there.

Spraying will have to be done with airplanes. If a person tries to use ground equipment he will lose more grain by mechanical injury than it would cost to have an airplane do the job.

Since job will have to be done by custom operators, we recommend only parathion or metacide, either at 4 ounces per acre, for control. We definitely do not recommend, however, that any farmer try to put on these insecticides.

Some aerial operators refuse to fly parathion. Metacide is not quite as hazardous to use, but it's almost as bad. Although I don't blame any one who refuses to apply the more hazardous materials, I believe farmers will get the most control for the least cost by having either parathion or metacide put on. If you have trouble getting someone to apply them, let me know and I'll try to help you get lined out. There are several operators in the state who will fly them.

Grasshoppers

With all the other insect trouble that has shown up during the past few weeks, a lot of people are overlooking the grasshopper hatch. Hatch of crops hoppers is well underway all over the state, and all hatching beds should be sprayed immediately if we are to avoid trouble this summer. Use 2 ounces of aldrin, ½ pound chlordane, or one pound of texaphene per acre. For small sprayers, use one tablespoon of 25 per cent aldrin emulsifiable concentrate, one tablespoon of 75 per cent chlordane emulsifiable concentrate, 3 tablespoons of 50 per cent texapheng emulsifiable concentrate in one gallon of water.

Bean Leaf Beetles

Damage to garden beans continues heavy over most of the state. Gardeners should continue putting on the methoxychlor.

Mexican Bean Beetle

First Mexican bean beetles in the Columbia area were found on June 1. Gardeners should be on the watch for them. Successful control is largely a matter of hitting them early and keeping up with them. Methoxychlor, if you start early enough and are persistant enough, will give control.

Striped Cucumber Beetle

Considerable feeding damage is showing on cucurbits. Use a 3 to 5 per cent methoxychlor dust for control. Add one per cent of lindane if aphids or squash bugs show up too.

Caution

If it becomes necessary to spray with parathion or metacide, extreme caution must be used in handling these materials. Farmers should not handle them at all, or as flaggers in the field. Rubber protective clothing, natural rubber gloves, and gas masks must be worn by those working with the stuff.

Follow to the letter all precautions given on the label of the containers.

In this hot weather, most of the parathion and metacide will break down in about 72 hours. There will be no residue on the crop after one week.

Father Chains Boy To Porch Chair, Now Faces Jail Sentence

ELGIN, Ill. (AP)—A 41-year-old watch worker was held in jail today after police charged he had bound his 12-year-old son to a porch chair with an iron chain.

Louis Molner Jr. was charged with endangering the health and life of a child. He was arrested Tuesday on complaint of neighbors.

Police said they found Molner's son Gary on a front porch chair with a 12-foot chain looped around his neck and padlocked to the chair.

They quoted Gary as saying that he was chained while his parents were at work because his father was dissatisfied with his performance in a Little League baseball game Sunday.

Molner told police that when he and his wife Sylvia came home for lunch Tuesday they discovered the boy had been playing with matches.

Gary was placed in a children's home pending disposition of the charge against his father.

Massacre Mountains

THE STORY: Pete Morrison, a scout for a California-bound wagon train, attempts to arrange winter quarters for the emigrants at Two Rivers, a settlement dominated by Zad Barnes, a renegade outlaw. At Two Rivers, Pete has a fight with Gabe Cox, one of Barnes' men.

• • •

IV

PETE MORRISON had time to shave and bathe before the supper gong sounded. He knew that his safety depended upon Zad Barnes, and so he left his gun in his room and walked bareheaded into the dining room. Zad and four or five other white men were already seated at the table. Gabe Cox was missing. The men glanced at Pete, and their eyes revealed that they noticed the absence of Pete's gun.

"Poor old Gabe," one of the men chuckled. "He'll have to eat soup through a straw for a month."

"You broke his jaw," Zad told Pete.

"That's too bad."

Zad said, "about them emigrants you were talking about. I've been thinking it over and it looks like we might work out a deal."

"Good."

"If they come through within the next month they can fatten their stuff in High Valley, and move down here later. I'll sell 'em what supplies they need, and only charge 'em two-bits a head a month for winter graze."

Pete said coolly, "I don't think we have to pay that. This river bottom is as free to us as it is to you."

Barnes said, "Of course you don't have to pay it, but it would be wise. These Injuns get mighty hungry in the winter time."

Pete said, "I think Captain Wilkinson will be able to defend himself." He saw Zad Barnes give an involuntary start.

"Who did you say?" Barnes asked cautiously.

"Wilkinson. He's captain of the party I'm talking about."

"What's his first name?"

"Nathan. You know him?"

"Never heard of him." Barnes growled, and Pete knew that again Zad lied. Barnes began to talk about what supplies the company would be likely to need.

"I'm sending a fast express to Los Angeles," he said, "and it'll be the last supply train to get back before winter. Better have a list of what you need."

• • •

BARNES sat a good table, and the men were waited upon by the same young squaw who doubled as chambermaid. Through an open door Pete caught sight of an older Indian woman at the stove, but he saw nothing more of Betty Barnes.

There was not a great deal of talk and the trouble between Gabe Cox and Pete was not mentioned again. However, Pete noticed that the men at the table made considerable effort to agree with anything Zad said. These were Zad Barnes' men, Pete thought.

Pete lingered at the table until the rest arose, then went back to his room. It was getting dark, but before lighting the coal-oil lamp he hung a blanket over the one window and closed the door. It wasn't the first time a blanket had been hung there, he saw, for there were nails conveniently placed.

After lighting the lamp his first concern was to see if his gun had been tampered with. It was still in the holster he had hung upon the bed post, but when he drew it out there was a rolled up paper in the trigger guard. He opened it with a little suppressed excitement and read, "Don't trust anybody here. Your life is in danger. Get away as quick as possible."

It was unsigned and the letters were large, like those made by a child who had only recently learned to write. He had no doubt at all that it had been written by Betty Barnes.

While not inclined to disregard the warning, Pete believed that it would be more dangerous to attempt to leave during the night than to wait until daybreak. And there was always the chance that Zad Barnes thought he would have a good chance to plunder the emigrants if they came to Two Rivers that winter.

The thing that worried him most was Zad's apparent recognition of Nate Wilkinson's name. He didn't see how it was possible, for Nate had never before been West—or at least so Nate had said.

• • •

PETE's own decision was a tough one to make. If he said the word Wilkinson would come on with the 20 or more families in his company, and they would be taking a desperate chance with Zad Barnes.

Pete knew what would happen if the Indians attacked.

That evening Pete had studied his maps and he knew that while Two Rivers was in the extreme corner of one territory, High Valley was across the line in another. It would make it extremely difficult to appeal to the law for any help, and in fact he had been told by one high in authority that it was impossible for the territorial officials to do anything—and the nearest Army post was more than 300 miles away.

All Zad Barnes had to do was stir up his Indians and Wilkinson's party might be completely wiped out, even though it numbered some 40 fighting men. And yet the only practical way to destroy Barnes' power was to establish a permanent settlement at Two Rivers.

Pete had already decided that since he was footloose he would spend the winter with Wilkinson's party to give them what protection he could.

Nothing happened to him that night, and after breakfast he prepared to leave for the north. Once more he saw the Navajo who had puzzled him. Pete could speak several Indian dialects but Navajo was not one of them.

The proud and arrogant Tobey was also around, but Pete avoided him. Tobey was obviously Barnes' man; perhaps the chief who had led previous raids on the emigrants.

Churchill's Demand For Big Four Meeting Helps Malenkov Stay In Power

WASHINGTON — Historians have one great advantage over modern-day statesmen — the advantage of hindsight. They don't have to predict in advance.

Being no statesman and only a predictor, I nevertheless go out on a limb to predict that historians a few years hence will chalk up the following highlights of history as milestones taking us downhill in the continuing cold war:

Highlight of History No. 1 — Churchill's build-up of Malenkov; If it were not for Winston Churchill, it is doubtful whether the people of Russia would know who Premier Malenkov is. Molotov and Beria have been keeping him pretty well in the closet, have scarcely let his name get in the papers of late, have shorn him of power over the Communist party and the secret police. However, Churchill's intermittent speeches proposing a Big Four meeting with Malenkov have dragged him into the spotlight, made him a great man, given him the world's best build-up. Russian reaction has been: "If the West demands Malenkov, then we'll give it Malenkov."

Immediately after Stalin died, Moscow was in a state of jitters. Whether Malenkov could remain in power was considered doubtful. U. S. experts figured that, if we left the Soviet alone, Stalin's successors were sure to fall out. But instead of letting them fall apart, Churchill has consistently built up the new premier of Russia.

He has done this partly because Sir Winston wants to go out of office in a blaze of glory, partly peaceful Clement Attlee, partly because he wants to out-peace because of his ambition to keep the Conservative government in power. He has done this even though he knows a Big Four conference can get nowhere, can only lull our Allies into false hopes for the end of a cold war which Moscow is not going to end.

NOTE — If Churchill proposed a meeting with Premier Mao Tse-Tung it might help drive a wedge between Moscow and Peiping, perhaps build Mao up as another Tito. But Winston's proposal to meet Malenkov merely makes Mao more dependent on Malenkov.

History Highlight No. 2 — Political promises last October: Once politics was injected into the Korean war, as it was by Eisenhower in the last election, the Russians were automatically put in a more favorable bargaining position regarding a truce in Korea.

For the Russians knew that, having talked a great deal about settling the Korean war, Ike had to deliver. To Moscow, that meant it could drive a far more favorable Communist bargain.

Actually, Malenkov needed a truce more than Ike. He needed it to back up his campaign speeches. Malenkov needed it to keep himself in office. Armed riots in Czechoslovakia, unrest in Poland and Hungary, worry over desertions from the Red army, plus the watchful eyes of Molotov and Beria, make a Korean truce imperative for Malenkov.

If we had not given it to him, he might have toppled from Stalin's seat in the Kremlin.

But Malenkov knew that Eisenhower badly needed the truce too, so continued his poker-faced bargaining. He now gets a breathing space to put jittery Soviet affairs in order.

Historians will probably note, also, that the same policy expressed by Trotsky after the Brest-Litovsk treaty will continue. Coming out of that conference which brought badly needed peace for the budding Bolsheviks in 1918, Trotsky was asked: "Do we have peace now?"

"No," said Trotsky, "no peace, no war."

That's sure to be the continuing situation with Malenkov's Soviet.

Historical Highlight No. 3 — British appeasement of Red China

Historians, I predict, will also note that the most discouraging diplomatic defeat in the snarled-up Korean fiasco was when England refused to break with Red China. Though British troops were fighting Chinese troops, England continued to recognize the country with which the free world was at war.

This gave Moscow the wonderful opportunity of playing off the No. 1 and No. 2 partners, American and England, against each other. And with the help of the McCarthys, the Kremlin has done this to perfection.

It was politically understandable that Labor Prime Minister Attlee did not break with China. But when Churchill followed Attlee's lead and went even further than Attlee in urging a meeting with Malenkov, he was in effect acting as the grave digger for the empire he had vowed not to liquidate.

MacArthur's strategy:

Historians are almost certain to say that Douglas MacArthur was 100 per cent right when he said that when you get mixed up in anything like the Korean war you have to win.

But they will also pin on MacArthur some of the gravest military blunders in recent history: 1. Failure of U. S. troops in Japan to be well trained and ready for hostilities; 2. The tragic error of sending scattered U. S. troops up toward the Manchurian border to be decimated by the Chinese; 3. Failure to have proper liaison between the 10th Corps and the 8th Army commanders; and 4. Faulty intelligence which said there were no Chinese troops in the Yalu River area when the area was teeming with them.

That tragic defeat, just after MacArthur said the boys would be home by Christmas, was the worst blow of the entire Korea war. And historians are bound to present it as the turning point in a war nobly conceived to prevent aggression and protect little nations, but which ended with the aggressor still boastful and belligerent, and with the battle-scarred little nation protesting that after three years of fighting it was being left holding the empty bag of promised peace.

Despite Secretary of Defense Wilson's bland assurance that the Red Air Force is strictly "defensive," the blunt truth is that Russia has four times as many jet bombers as the USA. Both countries also have approximately 1,100 long-range non-jet bombers. . . . Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey is so considerate of his government chauffeur that he insists on driving his own Buick to keep after-hours engagements. . . Congressional secretaries are planning a weekend outing in New York City, where they will take in a Dodger-Cub baseball game at the expense of a sugar company and lunch at the Hotel New Yorker as guests of "an anonymous gentleman from Texas."

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey will disclose his zealously guarded findings about the sex life of women in 10 weeks, on Aug. 20.

Newspaper and magazine writers here this week are reading proofs of his long-awaited book, "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female."

They are pledged not to tell anyone but their editors what the book says until Aug. 20. The Kinsey book itself will actually be published "a few weeks later."

One reason for the secrecy is to prevent some book authors from jumping the gun—publishing what purports to be condensations of the female book, Dr. Kinsey explained.

"There are five books, to my knowledge, which hope to beat us out as condensations," he said. "One already is in type, with just blanks to be filled in with our actual data as soon as the author can learn it."

Dr. Kinsey said he has refused an offer of $100,000 from one publication for exclusive rights to the female book. As with the book on sex life in men—which sold 250,000 copies—all income from this book will go to Kinsey's Institute for Sex Research here at Indiana University.

Kinsey is permitting these confidential pre-readings, he explained, because he wants the public to have the widest opportunity to learn, factually, what has been discovered through interviews and other studies of women.

The female book has been in preparation 15 years—the book on men took nine years. The women's book will be "a human document," organized differently from the 800-page book on males.

Publication had been expected earlier, but there was just too much information to be collected and analyzed, Dr. Kinsey said.

"People have advanced many reasons for the delay," he remarked. "Some said it was because of censorship. Others said it was because women wouldn't talk. Others said it was because the women talked too much."

This second book is part of a long-range project to learn all kinds of facts about sex behavior in humans. Under way simultaneously are studies of sex offenders and conflicting sex laws; sex life in institutions; homesexuals; development of sex attitudes in children; sexual factors in marriage adjustment; physiological studies of sex; prostitution; and erotic elements in art.

Already, 16,500 confidential personal case histories have been taken. 40 per cent or more by Dr. Kinsey himself. Only about 10 per cent of all this information has gone into the first two books on men and women.

'Moonlight Range' Trains for Korean Nights Teaches GIs to Hit Their Targets After Dark

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

FORT DIX, N. J. — The U. S. Army has at last found a way to teach soldiers how to shoot a rifle accurately at night.

With 90 per cent of the action in Korea taking place in darkness, it's hoped that this new training technique will soon produce better results in the battle zone.

Up until now troop commanders in Korea have complained bitterly and have written endless reports back to the Pentagon about the inability of U. S. infantrymen to fire their rifles effectively during night fighting.

Brig. Gen. Oliver P. Newman, as assistant commander of the famed Third Division in Korea, was one of the critics of the situation there.

"I could never figure it out," he says. "In the morning we'd have reports of Red attacks during the previous night. The enemy was getting up close enough to throw hand grenades at us. The reports would tell of great numbers of the Reds being killed. But when it got light they couldn't find any bodies.

"I knew they weren't bothering to remove all their killed and wounded. They don't do things that way. The only thing I could figure out was that we just weren't hitting them with our rifle fire. The men apparently just didn't know how to shoot accurately at night. And darn few of them were learning even under actual combat conditions."

Today, as acting commander of the Ninth (training) Division here at Fort Dix, it appears that Gen. Newman is on his way to licking this chronic problem.

A key factor in the new training is so - called "Moonlight Range," which simulates actual night combat conditions with various electronic devices.

SHOOTING IN THE DARK, infantry soldiers at Fort Dix train their rifles on "moonlight range" targets, which are purposely lightedhere to show in picture. In actual training, men have only the natural light which faintly outlines embankment in background.

It's actually three 75-yard ranges. This distance was selected because in combat in Korea the average distance for shooting at an enemy with a rifle at night is 60 yards and never more than 75 yards.

One range has stationary man-shaped targets illuminated with a faint, bluish light. Another has the same lighting, but the targets move. The third has flashing lights with the men shooting at simulated enemy rifle fire.

The instructions given trainees before trying the range stresses that the overwhelming tendency in firing at night is to shoot high. The instructor says:

"Completely lower your rear sight and with your eye directly behind the rear sight and as close to the top of it as possible, sight down along the top of your rifle and align your front sight with the base of your target.

"In order to insure that your eye is in the correct position, lower your head until the rear sight blocks your vision and again raise your head just enough to see the target. You align your front sight on the base of the target to compensate for the high firing."

There are other more complicated instructions, and the men are shown how to correct for the errors they tend to make at first.

"The important thing about this new method of training," Gen. Newman explains, "is that the men are actually being taught how to shoot at night before they get into combat. They don't have to learn how after they get to Korea, where it's probably too late."

This reporter spent a night on Moonlight Range watching a group of trainees get their instructions and then fire their M-I rifles at the almost - invisible targets. Their effectiveness was astonishing.

One group had a total of 72 shots at the rifle - flash targets and scored 22 hits the first time they tried it. The instructor, a Korean vet, said that this rate of accuracy in combat would stop an enemy attack cold.

On the stationary target range, the men are given four shots and then allowed to examine their scores. A special backdrop shows them where their "misses" hit. About half the class was getting two of the first four shots into the target, and close to three-quarters of the group got two out of four hits during the next attempts.

This Fort Dix teaching exeprriment has been so successful it is expected the technique will be adopted Army-wide as soon as possible so all men will have the advantage of it before they are shipped to Korea.

Record Year On Farm Crops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson, an avowed foe of government controls, today faced the prospect of having to apply restrictions on more crops in a single year than any of his predecessors.

An official crop report yesterday put the wheat supply at a surplus level which—unless there is an unforeseen major development —will require Benson to invoke rigid marketing quotas on the 1954 crop.

Growers already have approved 1954 controls for the major types of tobacco and for peanuts. Benson announced this week he will impose marketing controls of this year's production of sugar in Puerto Rico and in the domestic cane sugar area.

Reports on cotton planting indicate production of this crop may put supplies in a surplus class also requiring controls on next year's production.

Returning from a recent farm conference in the Midwest, Under-Secretary of Agriculture True D. Morse said it appeared that the corn acreage would be larger this year than last. Thus, it would be possible for the corn supply to reach a surplus mark also requiring quotas next year.

During the campaign last year, President Eisenhower pledged a minimum of agricultural controls. Benson, in speeches and statements, has said farmers want a federal farm program that would free them from government domination.

The secretary has little choice in using measures to cut down on production of major crops in excess supply. Farm laws require use of acreage planting allotments and marketing quotas when supplies of major crops reach specified levels.

Benson has pledged faithful administration of these laws. Nevertheless, he has said that he will seek better programs.

Benson has until July 1 to announce a decision on wheat controls, and he probably will wait until that time. Something could happen—although the chances are remote—to change the situation.

Yesterday's Agriculture Department report forecast this year's wheat crop at 1,132,500,000 bushels. This is at least 232½ million bushels above the level which might permit an escape from quotas.

The source of the Rio Grande is in the San Juan mountains of southern Colorado.

EVIDENCE of effectiveness of training for night shooting is shown on target held by Capt. James L. Mosley at Dix.

The World Today—

Won't Get Back to Normal

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The usual reaction after a war is: "Let's get back to normal in a hurry." It was that way after World War II. It shouldn't be that way if and when the Korean fighting ends.

In most wars someone wins and someone loses. The victor looks around, sees no immediate danger left on the horizon, and feels free to relax. New danger may develop later but he feels he can get ready for that when it apptars.

But in the Korean War there is no victor. Both sides are stronger than when the war began. Neither is surrendering its arms.

After the last war—with Hitler dead, the Germans and Japanese crushed, and Russia a recent ally—this country's mood was to get the fighting men home and back into civilian life, disarm, mothball the fleet, ground the planes, rip off wartime controls, peel off wartime taxes, look forward to a bright and peaceful future.

That was the national mood. What happened then was criticized later. It was credited with giving Russian communism a great advantage which it used, since Russia never disarmed as this country did. But every man who wants to be fair must search his conscience and ask himself: "Did I protest at the time against the national urge to get back to normal?"

Naturally the people with sons and loved ones in Korea want them to come back as soon as possible after a truce. But the national mood now is not the same as after World War II. The people of this country have been prepared, by both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations, to expect many years of preparedness.

If Congress reduced taxes before next year, it will be over the protests of President Eisenhower and his aides. They say big military preparations must continue and they seek the money to pay the bill.

There is no problem now of getting rid of wartime or emergency controls. They were gradually abolished before an end to the Korean War was in sight.

Everyone now seems fairly reconciled to paying high taxes—if not exactly as high as they pay at this moment—for years to come, because of the general belief that a big defense is necessary.

Under the plans of Secretary of Defense Wilson, the end of the Korean War doesn't call for a sharp cut in the size of the armed forces. He suggested some reduction in size before truce looked close.

But otherwise, he talks against any let-down. And the swing from shooting in Korea to truce in Korea could cause hardly a ripple in the daily life of the country.

World War II caused a vast disruption in the usual economic and social life of this country with about four times as many men in uniform as now, far more in government jobs than now, and millions doing work strictly for war.

Absorbing them back into civilian production, and getting the economy set on a peacetime basis was one of the great problems of history.

But now the economy is keyed to a certain pace of defense production, with a continuation for some time on schedule. The size of the armed forces won't be reduced suddenly. Those released from military service can be absorbed in civilian society easily.

The high taxes, the military preparations, the big foreign aid, are all abnormal conditions which have come to seem normal. If they suddenly stopped—even though all of them are on a smaller scale than in World War II—this country might suffer deeper damage and more difficult adjustment than after the last war.

Doctor Draft Ready For Extension; New Compromise Arranged

WASHINGTON (AP)—The doctor draft law is in shape to be extended two years, but doctors with substantial military service will be exempt.

House-Senate conferees agreed yesterday on a version compromising differences between bills passed by the two branches.

Doctors, dentists and veterinarians who served 21 months since Sept. 16, 1940, have no further obligation except in all-out emergency. Those who served 17 months are technically subject to call, but officials said they would not be reached under foreseeable demand.

Obligation remaining for others ranges from 15 months for those who served between 15 and 17 months to 24 months for those who served less than nine.

For centuries, in the past, no one in Great Britain could own swans without royal permission.

An Ogre, Customs Inspector, Awaits Returning Americans

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, (AP) — Every tourist leaves America smiling, but eight out of ten come home scowling—because of the ogre waiting for them at the end of the trip.

This ogre is the customs inspector, and it is his sad task to paw through your luggage to be sure you aren't smuggling in the British crown jewels without paying duty on them.

The customs inspector is a nice fellow with an odious responsibility and he often takes a lot of abuse. He knows he will never be named "man of the year," and that in a popularity poll he would rank even lower than a dentist or a traffic cop. It pains him that so many travelers resent him.

"You know," one told me, "I sometimes dream of how wonderful it would be if all tourists were nudists. It would make our job so much pleasanter all around."

If you are one of the hundreds of thousands of tourists who are going abroad this year, you naturally will have to deal with customs officials. Here are a few tested tips:

1. If you are entering a foreign country, such as England, where the language barrier is practically insurmountable, just stand silently before the customs inspector. No matter what he says, shake your head. When he gets tired of looking at you, he will let you into the country.

2. On your return to the U. S. don't say, "Why should it take me longer to get into America than it did Christopher Columbus? After all, he was a foreigner—and I was born here." The average customs inspector hears this remark five times a day. And the five people who say it are the last ones he clears.

3 Wear as guilty look as possible The customs men know from long experience it is the traveler with an innocent face who is most likely to try to cheat Uncle Sam.

4. Don't buy anything abroad, then you won't have anything to declare. The chances are, anyway, that no matter what you buy your wife will tell you she can get the same thing at the local department store for 10 per cent less—and in the right size.

5. If you do purchase some articles, itemize them fully on your customs sheet at their proper value, put them all in a single bag—and don't wrap them in soiled laundry. It is thoughtful travelers like this who make veteran customs men break down and cry with gratitude. They may even send you a Christmas card later.

6. Some bird-loving tourists try to sneak through with foreign-bought parrots, which are accused of spreading fever. If you attempt to break the law in this manner, don't bring in a talking parrot. Any talking parrot will crack under a real third degree, and turn into a stool pigeon. He will blame the whole plot on you, deny he had any part in it, and say he didn't even want to come to this country.

7. Above all, never say to a tired customs inspector, "you must have an exciting job—you meet such interesting laundry." He may never let you back into the country.

Firmin Huysentruyt, Here In 1952, Writes from Belgium

On June 5, 1952, Firmin Huysentruyt, 26, a farmer from Deerlyk, Belgium, came to the United States to make his home under an exchange plan with Mr. and Mrs. Leo Smith of Otterville.

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Smith received a leter from Firmin, who has now returned to his home in Belgium, which is printed in full below.

Firmin stated when he arrived last summer that he hoped to use the methods and ways of farming that he learned in the United States for lectures when he returned to Belgium.

In Belgium Firmin was a member of the Belgian Farmer's Union and several other agricultural organizations. There he did general farm work and specialized in tobacco and vegetable cultivation.

In the letter, Firmin refers to Jaques and asks the Smiths to give him his regards. Jaques is Edouard Gueyrand from France another of the Europeans who came to the United States on the exchange plan. He made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gerber who live east of Glenstead.

In his letter to the Smiths, Firmin wrote:

My dear friends:

It is raining this morning and it just gives me the time to write a letter to you.

The most busy springtime is over. Its all planted and sowed and coming up yet. Our flax is three fingers long. Our potatoes and feed beets are coming up since a week and we have to start cut weeds in the first days. Cattle are turned in pasture and we have plenty grass for the moment. April and May are the best grass months over here. We shall bring our four yearling heifers in a pasture near the sea. Its a pasture we are having for this summer. Tomorrow we shall cut our green rye and English roy grass to make silage. Its all two feet long and will give us good feed for the dry months of July and August. To preserve the feed we put some powder between.

We are all fine. My oldest brother. Westor and his wife and two kids are ready to leave Belgium to go in journey in Canada. They will leave the country on the 14h of May going on the boat in Rotterdam (Holland.) They will spend nine days underway by boat and two days by train before arriving in Ontario (Canada.) The community where he goes to live is St. Albarys in the south of Ontario near the Lake Erie. It is the sugar beet and tobacco country over there. If you have to arrange your following vacation you can go to there and see them. He is quitting his farm over here to look for a better living.

Next Monday I will go to the city of Brugge (8 miles of the Sea) to see the procession known everywhere. Many English, French and Holland's tourists come over on this day to see the feast. I hope we shall have a nice weather (we do the trip by bicycles.) I met Simonne on the fair in Kortryk. She get along all right. On the 19th of May one year ago I was leaving my dear Belgium to come to the States. The fifth of June I came in by you. Where is all this time gone and so fast. I remember all this nice days we spent together during last summer — my horse rides and trips with you and my last call from New York to you — my last good bye. On the 21st of June, National Feast of Belgium. We shall have a big feast in my community. It's a Catholic feast in the honour of the Holy hoerth. Four million paper roses are made by people to ornament the streets and a big cortege will be done in the night. I have to conduct four heavy Belgium horses pulling a decorated wagon. Now the sun is coming through the clouds. She gives me the idea to quit writing and start again working. I hope you are all fine. Thank you very much for your last pictures, they are very good taken. I put them in a framework in our kitchen. Everyone who is coming in likes to know who this fine people all are. I tell them, the Smiths from Otterville, my host family from last summer. Yesterday I had a letter of my friend in Holland who spent his time with me in Ohio. He had some damage from the storm disaster, but not too bad. Do you have still all your riding horses, Nelly, Hoppy, Lucy and Mr. Smith's nice one. I read the last number of the Weekly Star Farmer. The prices of cattle are still going down. 23 dollars for this year by 36 a year ago. That makes something. Over here we hope the Big Four will find the way to give the world a peaceful time. Since Stalin died there is something changed in Russia. I hope they are on the right way — or is it falsely.

Bringing my best wishes to you Mr. Smith and Mrs. Smith, to Jagues, to all my relations of Morgan and Cooper counties and all my Missouri friends and will finish my letter by telling a hello of my parents, my brothers and sisters. — Lovely and so long, Firmin Huysentruyt, Deerlyk, Belgium.

Restore Fund For 'Ammo'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Now that the dust has settled and debate has died away, the Army finds some solace in the senatorial investigation of ammunition shortages.

Economy trends had whittled appropriation proposals for ammunition to a fraction of the requested amount earlier this year. But Congress and the administration, alarmed by the charges of previous critical shortages in ammunition, restored to the budget much of the money originally requested for this purpose, it was learned today.

Ammunition accounts for a large part of the $923,487,000 added by the Eisenhower administration to the original Truman administration budget item for Army procurement and production. The new total for Army production, as proposed by the Budget Bureau on the basis of Defense Department recommendations is $2,471,799,000.

Officials say the money is urgently needed to build up reserve stocks of ammunition badly depleted by the heavy drain of the first two years of the Korean War, when new production facilities had not come into full operation.

The Army was the only one of the three services to emerge from the administration's budget revising with more money than it would have had under the Truman budget.

But Army officials say this is accounted for entirely by two factors—the increased money for ammunition and the inclusion in the 1954 budget of items for the Korean War, including the cost of equipping additional South Korean divisions.

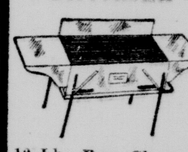

The difference between reductions made elsewhere in the Army budget and the increases for ammunition and for operation of the Korean War showed up in a net increase of $1,561,409,000 for the Army. Total appropriation recommended for the Army now stands at $13,671,000,000.

While the cutbacks elsewhere in the Army budget were substantial in some instances, officials generally do not consider them as impossible to meet.

Brazil Slums Grow

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Rio De Janiero's "favelas," or hillside slums, could rank among the world's most populous. A recent survey by the National Yellow Fever Service found 90,000 jerry-built shacks spread through 54 different sites in and around the city.

These, the service estimated, accommodate 340,000 persons, or one-seventh of the city's population. The number of "favelados," had doubled between 1950 and 1953. The census of 1950 showed 170,000 persons living in the favelas.

Rotary Takes Over National Loop Lead With Victory Over Jaycees

Kiwanis Downs Elks 15 to 11; Kelly Hits Homer

Rotary took over undisputed possession of first place, as the only undefeated team, in the national league of the Little League Wednesday night. Coming from behind, and stalling a late rally by the Jaycees, the Rotary team took an 1 to 9 decision. In the other game of the night Kiwanis defeated the Elks 15 to 11.

A minor league game opened the evening's schedule and in it the Democrate-Capital won 8 to 4 over the Lion's.

That the Rotarians will be a threat all season was proved in their use of another pitcher in this game from the one who hurled the no-hit, no-run victory on opening night. That was Herrick who was at short Wednesday while Burford took the win on the mound.

Two doubles by Rouchka and a triple by Burford were the only extra base hits among five safeties by the Rotarians as the Jaycees used three hurlers. Mulchahey, who opened on the mound for the Jaycees, took the loss. He was relieved in the third by Horner and Bredwell went to the mound in the 4th and finished the game.

Opening with 4 runs in the top of the first, the Jaycees looked like a winner. They kept the lead until the last of the third, with the Rotary team getting two runs in the last of the second. In their part of the third the winners put across five runs on one hit, some walks and several errors and had a 7-4 advantage. Jaycees counted one more in the 4th and Rotary three more in the fourth and one in the fifth for a 11-5 lead.

Trying desperately to catch up, the Jaycees shoved in four runs on five hits in the top of the sixth, but their rally was nipped two runs short of a tie.

Kiwanians, victims of the no-hit, no-run game on opening night, apparently were waked up on that occasion and they garnered 11 hits and executed some smart base running to nip the Elks 15 to 11 in a free scoring affair.

Dwayne Kelly, the Kwanis first sacker, rapped a long fly ball over the right field wall in the 4th to join Lawrence of Optimist as the only home run hitters in the new stadium. That blow came in the Kiwanians' big inning, when they put over 8 runs on five hits.

At first, just as in the other game, it looked like the first team at bat had a big edge, for the Elks opened the first half inning with six runs on 4 hits. Kiwanis got 3 in the first. The Elks expanded the lead with two more in the second while the Kiwanis got a pair. In the third the Elks put over 3 more and the Kiwanis a couple for an 11-7 count as the 4th canto got underway.

In the 4th the Elks were held scoreless and the Kiwanis went on the 8-run spree. There was no more score after that as both teams tightened up.

Noland was the big gun for the Elks, hurling a good game and getting 3 for 4 at the plate. Meredith and Farris shared hurling chores for the winners.

Extra base blows during the evening included: doubles by Horner and Bredweil of the Jaycees; two by Rouchka of Rotary; Stratton of Kiwanis; a double and a homer by Kelly of Kiwanis; a double and triple each by Meredith of Kiwanis and Noland of Elks; and triples by Burford of Rotary and Garrison of Elks.

Leo the Lip Serving Last Year and He Doesn't Care

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Men close to the New York Giants, including newsmen who follow the club most of their waking hours, are becoming more convinced each day that colorful Leo Durocher is serving his last term as manager of the Polo Grounders — and that he doesn't care if he is.

In fact, some observers are of the strong opinion that Leo fully intends to quit the game at the end of the current season, or maybe even before that if he is pushed, and plunge into a new career as a producer of sports films for television in Hollywood. He is supposed to have confided as much to intimates.

As the latest "proof" of Leo's scorn for his baseball future is cited his raging tirade against all National League umpires after the Giants dropped a close decision to Milwaukee two nights ago and he had been thumbed from the park for the second straight day. Leo insisted he was talking for the record too.

"Don't tell me," he fumed, "that they don't get together before the game and decide that the first time a certain person says something he's going to be put out of the game. They do the same to (Eddie) Stanky."

There is the additional fact that relations between Leo and his boss, Horace Stoneham, have cooled appreciably since the Giants won their flag on Bobby Thomson's dramatic home run two years ago. Horace was irritated by his manager's hint about going Hollywood last winter after he had been given a contract covering only the present campaign. Relations between Leo and his shortstop-captain, Alvin Dark, remain strained in adversity.

While Stoneham still appreciates Durocher's managerial gifts, which have been amply proved since he took over as Brooklyn's playing pilot 14 years ago, those near the Giants president felt as far back as the early spring that Leo would have to produce this season, or else. Unless the Giants land a sure-fire starting pitcher before the trading deadline on Monday there can be no guarantee they will finish in the first division.

The most popular candidate to succeed Durocher, if and when he turns in his suit for a higher art form, is Freddie Fitzsimmons. The former knuckleballer just has been detached from Leo's coaching staff and sent up to Minneapolis to try to manage that farm club out of the American Association cellar.

Durocher Agrees To a Truce With ---Yep, the Umps

NEW YORK (AP)—Leo Durocher, who in the space of 18 hours talked himself into and out of a suspension by National League President Warren Giles, has agreed to a truce with his favorite sparring partners, the umpires.

But those who know Leo best wonder: How long will the truce last? Has the fiery leader of the New York Giants decided to accept Giles' veiled warning to button his lip about umpires? Or will Leo again put the blast on the men in blue the minute one of them makes a decision against his team that he considers wrong and unjust?

One thing is certain. Durocher got off lightly following his latest brush with the umpires. It looked mighty black for him for a while yesterday as the result of the bitter charges that National League umpires are gauging up on him.

Durocher saved his skin by retracting statements attributed to him after receiving a telegram from Giles. The National League prexy threatened Leo with indefinite suspension unless he substantiated his charges or made a public retraction of them.

Leo not only said he "didn't mean it," but apologized to Giles by telephone. Giles accepted both the retraction and the apology. Today Giles sent a second telegram which read:

"I consider your statement, to me and your public statement to the press which I have read, a complete retraction and in compliance with my request. The suspension which was to have become effective today, is no longer in effect."

Giles declined to say what his actions would be should Durocher become involved in other hassels with the umpires. However, he asserted, he will never stand for a manager or a player casting reflections on any of his umpires.

"The suspension was going to stick as long as Leo refused to substantiate his remarks. Those were serious charges and were damaging to baseball," Giles said, adding:

Leo, an old hand at disputing with umpires and the league office, got into his latest jam as the result of a quote, attributed to him, in yesterday's New York Post. It read in part:

"Don't tell me they (the umpires) don't get together before the game and decide the first time a certain person says something he is going to be put out of the game. They do the same to Stanky.

Two Texas Teams In NCAA Baseball Tourney Today

OMAHA (AP)—The Texans looked mighty tall in the saddle today as they prepared to go off on the trail of the National Collegiate Baseball title.

They had everyone else outnumbered, too.

In the field of eight top college teams in the NCAA's college world series opening here today, two are from Texas. Each is a district champion.

The University of Texas, three times an NCAA finalist and once the champion, was matched with Duke University at 2:30 p. m. (CST).

Houston, a newcomer to the tourney, was to meet Boston College at 8:30 p. m.

After seven of the eight teams worked out yesterday, the word began to circulate that Texas was the team to beat.

Lafayette and Colorado State were to lead off the first round of the double elimination play at 12 p. m. today. Stanford and Michigan were scheduled for the first evening game at 6 p. m.

The tournament will continue through Monday with the possibility of a game Tuesday if the tournament goes to 15 games.

Phillies' Busy Hurlers Take 2 From Cubs

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sportswriter

The Philadelphia Phillies have the day off today but their pitchers have been working so often they may show up at the ball park and begin throwing just from force of habit.

At the start of the season Manager Steve O'Neill's biggest problem was finding one more starter to go with his big three. Now he's trying to locate three more starters to go with his big one.

Despite his troubles O'Neill still has a winning ball club. The Phillies have taken eight out of 12 and four straight since their current home stand opened a week ago Tuesday. They won a pair from Chicago last night, 9-1 and 8-5, and moved within four games of the league-leading Milwaukee Braves.

In the dozen contests O'Neill has gotten a route-going performance three times — three victories by Robin Roberts, the league's best. Anywhere from two to five pitchers have seen action in each of the other games. Steve Ridzik worked in six of the 12 and Jim Konstanty and Karl Drews in five apiece.

O'Neill opened the year with a pitching rotation of Roberts, Curt Simmons, and then either Drews or Konstanty or both. Now Simmons is out indefinitely with an injured foot and neither Drews nor Konstanty has been able to go without help. Both have been working as relief pitchers as often as starters.

Roberts became the first pitcher in either league to win 10 games as he picked up the decision in the first game last night. Konstanty started and won the nightcap, although Ridzik and Drews were in action before it ended.

The Phils' fate now appears to depend on Roberts' continued brilliant form and on how long O'Neill can remain a successful juggler.

The Braves kept a game in front of the Brooklyn Dodgers by Edging New York, 6-5. The Dodgers hammered 13 hits off Cincinnati pitching to whip the Redlegs, 13-3. St. Louis won for the third time in 10 road games, 5-1 over Pittsburgh.

In the American League, the New York Yankees trimmed Detroit, 11-4, for their 13th straight and Cleveland nipped the Washington Senators, 2-1, for their seventh in a row. The Yanks lead the Indians by 5½ games.

Boston moved into third place with a pair of victories over the St. Louis Browns, 11-2, and 3-2, with Jimmy Piersall equaling a major league record with six straight hits in the opener. Philadelphia edged Chicago, 2-1.

The big blows in Milwaukee's success at the Polo Grounds were home runs by Eddie Mathews and Sid Gordon. Mathews' poke was his 18th of the season and put him out in front in the league's home run race. Gordon's came with two aboard in the eighth and provided the winning runs.

Brooklyn broke open a 3-3 tie with theee runs in the sixth and frosted the cake with seven more in the eighth.

Manager Eddie Stanky sent his Cardinals through a long day workout and got dividends in the night game with the heavy hitting coming from Enos Slaughter, four for four, and Stan Musial, a double and single in three trips.

In the Detroit contest — yankee pinch hitters Johnny Mize and Yogi Berra sparked a seven - hit, seven-run rally in the sixth inning.

Mike Garcia, finally flashing the form he showed last season, set the Senators down on four hits at Cleveland.

Piersall's six-for-six spree led a 19-hit Boston attack in the first game at St. Louis, but the Red Sox had to scramble for the second when they were outhit, 11-10.

The White Sox, as hard up for good starting pitchers as any team in the league, gave relief ace Sandy Consuegra his first starting assignment but forgot to get him some runs. They managed a single tally off Harry Byrd in the first, then were blanked.

Carter Boldly Says He'll KO Geo. Araujo

NEW YORK (AP) — Lightweight champion Jimmy Carter boldly predicts he'll knock out challenger George Araujo "inside 10 rounds" when they meet in a 15-round title match tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden.

Carter seldom strays from the "I'll do my best" routine. This time, he's going out of his way to pick himself by a KO. It seems he is a little disturbed by all the stories about Araujo's chances of lifting his title.

The odds, originally favoring Carter, swung to Araujo's side last week. At one stage he was as much as a 7 to 5 choice. Now it's back in the middle as a pick 'em fight or 6 to 5 and take your choice.

Golfers Prove Oakmont Can Be Beaten

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP)—The two experimental qualifying rounds of the 53rd National Open Golf Championship have shown that the manufactured "monster," Oakmont, can be mastered like any mechanical toy.

Today 157 of the nation's best golfers set out in dead earnest to reassert their mastery of the storied golf course in the 72 holes of what used to be the entire Open.

All previous scores, including Jimmy Clark's 6 under par 66 that set a new competitive record for the 6,916-yard Oakmont course were wiped out with the start of the tournament proper.

Not a player of importance failed to finish inside the qualifying limit of 156 strokes for the two rounds. One, Defending Champion Julius Boros, was exempt. So about all that was proved by the new qualifying round, sharply criticized by some of the players, was that Oakmont can be licked.

That was done quite thoroughly by Clark, a 32-year-old touring pro who has won little more than peanuts in four years on tht tournament trail. His round of 34-32--66 yesterday was the best ever recorded in competition at Oakmont. And his two-day total of 138 earned him the qualifying medal and $250 cash prize by a two-stroke margin over 1949 Open Champion Cary Middlecoff.

And the course over which only one player had broken 300 for 72 holes in two previous National Open Championships submitted meekly to a handful of other unawed golfers. Actually, the narrow, deep-roughed Pittsburgh Field Club Course, where half the qualifying rounds were played, proved a tougher scoring proposition.

Long-hitting Chick Harbert shot a 66 there Tuesday—and skied to an 82 at Oakmont yesterday. But three of the four rounds in the 60s were played at Oakmont and par was broken oftener there.

Ben Hogan, winner of three of the last five Open championships, qualified with ordinary rounds of 77-73--150. He hurt his back Tuesday on the first round, had it treated and then didn't notice it again until the last three holes yesterday, when he tired and went five strokes over par.

Ninth In Row As Browns Lose; Cards Win 5-1

By The Associated Press

A double defeat at the hands of Boston's Red Sox last night put the St. Louis Browns on the short end of the score for the ninth straight game.

Dick Gernert's second inning homer proved to be the difference in the second game of the twi-night doubleheader as the Browns went down, 3-2. The Sox won the first game, hammering five of the Brownie hurlers for 19 hits for an 11-2 victory.

It was the second time this year that the Browns had lost nine straight games.

Boston outfielder Jim Piersall got six straight hits in the first game to tie a major league record for the most hits in a nine inning game. But he failed to hit safely in five trips to the plate in the nightcap.

The Browns lost a chance to tie or win the second game in the eighth inning when they loaded the bases on three straight singles with one out but failed to score.

In Pittsburgh, Manager Eddie Stanky put his Cardinals through a stiff morning workout and the Birds came through with a 5-1 victory over the Pirates.

Enos Slaughter, with four hits in as many trips to the plate, and Stan Musial, with two hits in three trys, led the Cardinals' attack.

Joe Presko received credit for his fourth victory against five defeats although he needed help from Hal White in the eighth. Presko had allowed four hits, including a homer by Frank Thomas, until the eighth when the Pirates opened with two consecutive singles. White came on to stop the impending rally.

Gavilan Sees Title Defense And New Title

DETROIT (AP)—"First me defend my title, then fight middleweight champion for his title."

Those are Kid Gavilan's plans after breezing to an easy 10-round non-title decision over Italo Scortichini at Olympia stadium last night.

"Maybe me fight Art Aragon for my title in California in July," said the smooth welterweight champion, who had nothing more than a workout against Scortichini.

"But if not Aragon, maybe me fight Johnny Saxton or Gil Turner or Chuck Davey. . . All three make good fight."

Saxton and Turner are scheduled to meet in Philadelphia Monday night in what amounts to a welterweight elimination match. It's possible Davey may meet the Saxton-Turner winner, with the winner of that facing Gavilan.

After watching Gavilan slam Scortichini, it's a wonder why anybody would want to fight the slick Havana hawk—except, of course, for that precious folding green.

Flashing his bolo at will, Gavilan trimmed his young Italian opponent from start to finish. The best that can be said for Scortichini is that he refused to be bullied by Gavilan. In the early going, he traded punches with the champ. He usually came out on the short end of these flurries — but at least he was willing to swap leather, which is more than can be said for some fighters.

Near the end, "Scorty" tired and Gavvy coasted in. The champion made frequent use of his bolo, to the delight of 5,044 fans who seemed to pay their money ($11,450) just to see El Gavilan's famous bolo in action.

Gavilan, who weighed 151¾ to Scortichini's 155, was a popular choice on the scoreboards of all three officials. Referee Clarence Rosen had the champion on top, 58-42, while Judge Al Goodman had it 60-40 and Judge Jack Aspery 53-47.

Springfield Golf Team Named for Horton Smith

The qualifying rounds for the Horton Smith Cup team, named after a former Sedalian, Horton Smith, who later lived in Springfield, will be held next Saturday at the Grandview and Hickory Hills Golf courses in Springfield.

The announcement of the entrance of the Springfield team in the 36 hole qualifying rounds to choose 12 men to play in competition with the Joplin, Mo., team was made recently by Arch Lowe Jr., who is the manager of the team named after the ex-Sedalian.

Stanky Saved Two Cards from Suspension By President Giles

PITTSBURGH (AP)—St. Louis Cardinal Manager Eddie Stanky's "peace maker" role at Brooklyn last Saturday saved two of his players from a suspension by National League President Warren Giles.

Both shortstop Solly Hemus and Catcher Del Rice were fined $50 for their protest to umpire Bill Englen over a ball and strike call. The Cardinals were defeated by the Dodgers, 5-4, when Gil Hodges hit a three-run homer in the ninth inning after the call which the players contended should have been a third strike.

In telegrams to the Cardinals here, Giles said the players would have been suspended if Stanky hadn't tried to control them.

Five Neutral Nations Will Likely Serve

WASHINGTON (AP)—All five nations proposed for membership on a "neutral" prisoner of war commission in Korea are now expected to serve—thereby eliminating one of the last barriers to a truce.

U. S. officials still privately expressed concern today over the big and probably final barrier — what South Korea will do. But there was increasing confidence here that at some point before, or about the time, the fighting ends President Syngman Rhee will agree to go along with a cease-fire.

Just last night, however, Korean Ambassador You Chan Yang reiterated on a CBS radio broadcast here that his government is determined not to sign a truce which would leave Korea divided.

"We feel definitely this is not going to bring peace to us or to you either," he said. "This is a prelude to a larger, much more destructive war. When the Communists are fully prepared and have enough stockpiles, they will strike at the heart of the industrial centers of the U. S., because that's what they hate most."

There is no longer any doubt here that the technical details yet to be settled with the Communist command by the U. N. negotiators at Panmunjom will be resolved in a relatively short time. These details are concerned chiefly with laying out the zone which will divide the armies after an armistice.

Meanwhile, the Korean Embassy released last night a message sent 12 days ago by Rhee to President Eisenhower asking for a defense treaty with the U. S. and including a provision for keeping U. S. air and naval forces in the Korean area indefinitely as protection against new aggression.

Rhee's other requests, including withdrawal of Communist and U. N. forces, had previously been made known.

South Korean attacks on the impending armistice agreement became a factor of critical importance in setting up the post-armistice war prisoner repatriation commission when Switzerland announced Tuesday a refusal to serve unless South Korea approved. Yesterday, however, the government at Bern began reconsidering and today the situation was this:

Sweden—Ambassador Erik Boheman delivered to the State Department late yesterday a note stating that Sweden "has decided to accept to serve."

India — Prime Minister Nehru was quoted in news dispatches as saying India was ready to serve but would have to reconsider if South Korean troops pulled out of the U. N. Command. U. S. officials considered that India, which is slated to head the commission, will undoubtedly serve.

Switzerland — Foreign Minister Max Petitpierre said at Bern his country "could be induced" to take part in order to avoid delaying an armistice. This seemed to cancel the previous announcement that Switzerland must be counted out unless the South Koreans fell in line.

Poland and Czechoslovakia — These two Communist nations are likely to accept.

Soviet Deputy Wants Good Quality Products

MOSCOW (AP)— Deputies in the Moscow City Soviet at a recent meeting demanded that local and co - operative industries produce more and better consumer goods, it was disclosed today.

The director of Moscow's largest department store told the other deputies his store sells many goods produced by these industries, adding that "the quality of the goods frequently does not satisfy the customers." The director said his store had been forced to downgrade about 50 per cent of all furniture received from local plants because of low quality.

Dr. Roy Williams' Thesis Published In Historical Review

Dr. Roy F. Williams, Stover, recently published a doctoral dissertation which he completed last year at the Central Baptist Theological Seminary in Kansas City.

Excerpts from the book, which are currently running in the "Missouri Historical Review," tell of the foundation of the Little Bonne Femme Association.

This association, the article explains, was formed in 1839 by seven Baptist churches of Boone, Callaway and Audrian Counties in protest against the anti - missionary action of the Salem Association.

The article also notes the establishment of William Jewell College and the Baptist Female College, which later became Stephens College for Women at Columbia.

Auriol Still Looks For French Premier After Bidault Defeat

PARIS (AP)—The French government crisis entered its fourth week today and President Vincent Auriol looked again for a premier following the National Assembly's rejection of a third candidate, Georges Bidault.

In the Assembly balloting earlier today, the 627-member lower house failed by one vote to give Bidault the 314-vote absolute majority he required for confirmation. The count was 313-228.

As auriol began talks with the heads of France's many parties, one name mentioned unofficially as a possible contender was Louis Jacquinot, an independent. He was minister of overseas territories in the Rene Mayer Cabinet, whose defeat May 21 started the crisis.

Auriol announced he expected to name a fourth Preier-designate early tonight.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said today the United States has a "very substantial supply of atomic weapons" and is turning out more at an increasing rate.

He made the statement in disputing a contention by Rep. Price (D-Ill) that the supply of atomic weapons "is dangerously inadequate, both as to quantity and variety."

Fence Post Torpedo

DWIGHT, Ill. (AP) — Francis Faarup, 21, a sailor, was "torpedoed" in his automobile recently by a fence post.

As he drove his car along a highway near here he fell asleep at the wheel. His car left the road and struck a guard rail. A post, torn loose by the impact, was driven through the front end of the car. The post rammed through the grill, over the motor, into the body and hit the front seat, knocking it into the rear.

The post narrowly missed Faarup but he climbed out unhurt.

Sunken Ship

First American ship sunk in World War II was the destroyer Reuben James, which was torpedoed and sunk by a Nazi submarine on Oct. 30, 1941, before the United States was officially in the war.

Open House Sunday at Buena Vista from 3 Until 8 P. M.

Ice Cream Social Being Held After Worship Service

Excitement is in the air at Beuna Vista Home for Sunday is the big day — open house and an ice cream social. Everybody in town is going to be there, the people at the home hope. They are going to help entertain and they think it is going to be wonderful. They are going to display some of the things they do to pass the time away, too, for they make all kinds of pretty things.

From 2 to 3 Sunday afternoon church services will be held at the home conducted by the Rev. D. Warren neal, pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian Church, and then comes the open house and the ice cream social.

Board members and their wives are going to serve as guides through the home and the people themselves wondered what they were supposed to do.

"Will we stay in our rooms?", some of them asked, and Mrs. M. E. Green, superintendent of the home said, "No — you will be hosts and hostesses to the guests."

That really made things perfect. That was what they wanted to do and they can hardly wait until Sunday afternoon because they do love company. There are 38 people living at the home and unless they are confined to their rooms by illness they will be right there to welcome and talk to everybody.

Tickets have been given out at civic clubs and various other organizations to be sold, but those who have not been asked to buy tickets may do so at the home, because the treasurer of this nonprofit organization board, Earl Crawford, will be there to sell tickets to anybody who wants one.

Members of the board are: H. E. Lindstrom, president; Richard Lower, vice -president; Mrs. M. E. Green, secretary; Earl Crawford, treasurer, the Rev. A. J. Brunswick, the Rev. Roy Bowers, W. F. Keyser, L. C. Bryson, Olen Monsees, Ed Heffernan and Riley Lee.

Mrs. Green would like to have a program of music, but she just wouldn't know where to start — it is such a long period of time from 3 to 8 o'clock and she wouldn't know how to plan a program. She hopes that they are going to have enough cakes, too, and she thinks maybe they will, but even so she would like to see the crowd even greater than even the top number in her plans, and that she might run out of cake at that. She is going to have some "boughten" cakes and some cookies on hand just in case and she would be mighty glad if the number of people visiting there would be so great that there wouldn't even be a cookie left on the place.

The people of the home are mighty happy over a gift they received this week, sixteen beautiful metal lawn chairs in white with red and green trim.

They are from the personnel and employees of the Lamy Manufacturing Company.

Fair Weather Seen, With No Violent Wind Storms

By The Associated Press

Generally fair and mild weather —in sharp contrast to violent storms in some sections earlier this week—was the outlook for most of the nation today.

No stormy weather was reported throughout the country early today. There was light rain in Montana, Southern New Mexico and along the South Atlantic Coast. But clear skies prevailed in the Great Lakes region, the Southern Great Plains and in the Far Southwest.

The hottest weather of the spring season continued in sections of Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado and the Far Southwest. Temperatures again Wednesday climbed above 100 degrees in many cities.

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — Twelve Americans who wanted to fly for Nationalist China's Air Force have been turned down, regretfully.

Gen. "Tiger" Wang Shu-ming thanked the Americans, but said the government isn't accepting foreign volunteers.

The Americans, whose names were not disclosed, made their offer through the Nationalist Embassy in Washington.

Ike Names Disaster Areas, Qualifying Them for Federal Aid

MINOT, N. D. (AP)—President Eisenhower early today designated flood and tornado-stricken regions of Massachusetts and Iowa as major disaster areas, qualifying them for federal aid.

Announcement of the action was made by Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary.

Snyder told newsmen telegrams notifying Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts and Gov. William S. Beardsley of the President's action were being dispatched later in the day.

There was no immediate indication how much federal aid would go to either state. Snyder said Herter asked for 10 million dollars.

There were indications here Eisenhower might decide to visit the Worcester area Saturday, when he is scheduled to fly from Rapid City, S. D., to Hanover, N. H.

Proposes Radar System To Track Tornadoes

BALTIMORE (AP)—A nation-wide radar network to track tornadoes and reduce the loss of life and property from such catastrophes has been proposed by a weather expert.

Capt. Howard P. Orville, former head of the Navy's Meterological Division, estimated such a system could be built at 35 key weather stations. He suggested it would cost about five million dollars a year over a 10-year period.

Soviet Papers Call Italy Voting Victory

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet newspapers today headlined reports of the Italian elections as "a victory of the popular forces."

There was no editorial comment, other than the headline, on the parliamentary elections. But the entire tone of four Tass dispatches published under this headline was one of triumph.

(Both the extreme left and the extreme right made striking gains in the Italian balloting.)

Judge Best Steak By Its Bone

ROUND-BONE SIRLOIN is the top-quality steak — thick, tender and succulent—to warm Dad's heart this coming Father's Day.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Peer into the secret recesses of Dad's heart and you'll find the picture of a thick, juicy sirloin steak, rare and pink inside, richly browned outside.

But before you set forth to select the best of all steaks for Father's Day, remember that the size and shape of the bone in the sirloin is your best guide. That's the advice we get from our stockyard friends in Chicago.

If you want the finest, select a "double-bone" sirloin. It will have portions of two narrow bones at one edge. A "round-bone" sirloin is also top quality. It will have a small amount of oval bone. Both the "double - bone" and "round-bone" sirloins will be fine - flavored and tender, and have little waste on them.

A sirloin steak with triangular or wedge - shaped bone is the most economical cut of sirloin. But it is a less tender steak. It is cut from the section next to the round.

The most tender sirloin steak, but one which contains much waste in the form of fat and bone, is the "pin-bone" sirloin. Because it is next to the T-bone or porterhouse, it has both the distinctive T-shaped bone and a large, flat bone. The "pin-bone" sirloin will provide only 2 or 3 servings.

Have your steak cut thick, from one to 2 inches, approximately 1½ inches preferred. Plan on a generous ½ pound of sirloin steak per serving. Father likes to eat big.

Store the steak flat in the refrigerator, loosely wrapped in clean wrapping paper, waxed or aliminum foil and use within 3 to 5 days. Next comes the broiling. See tomorrow's column for complete instructions.

What will Dad want with his steak? Generally, men like big baked potatoes, broken open at top, with many pats of butter stuck in them. They are French-fried potato fans, too. Since you can get quick-frozen French-frieds that cook easily in the oven, it's no trouble to indulge this masculine preference.

Minnesota Chocolate Cake Is Sure-Fire Treat for Dad

No two men are alike, but they all want chocolate cake. Rich, dark and if possible with some more of the chocolate seeping through. That seems to be the best bet for Father's Day if pleasing Dad is what you want.

Luella R. Maslon of Minneapolis came in on this discussion with a colossal suggestion. It's called Best Chocolate Cake and is in the book ("Everyone Can Cook") she edited for benefit of Mount Sinai Hospital in her city.

Best Chocolate Cake

Three squares semisweet chocolate, 1 cup boiling water, ¼ pound butter, 2 eggs, 2 cups cake flour (after sifting), 1¼ teaspoons baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups granulated sugar, 1½ teaspoons vanilla, ½ cup butter-milk.

In top of double boiler melt chocolate, boiling water and butter. When this is melted as thin as water, cool. Beat eggs well in buttermilk. Set aside. Add baking soda and salt to flour, add sugar, and then combine these in a large bowl in this order: buttermilk mixture, sugar and flour mixture, and chocolate mixture.

Beat well, and make sure that it is well blended without overbeating. Add vanilla and bake in 2 well -buttered 9-inch layer tins for 50 minutes in 350 degrees F. oven. When cool, use following icing:

Two egg whites, ¼ cup granulated sugar, 2½ tablespoons cold water, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, pinch of salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Place egg whites, sugar, water, cream of tartar and salt in top of double boiler. Beat with rotary beater until well blended. Place over hard boiling water and beat continuously for 7 minutes. It should stand up in peaks and must be removed from fire and cooled.

Add vanilla when cool and spread on cake. Cover icing with drippings of 1 sq. baking chocolate melted with 1 tablespoons butter, poured over, and let run down over white icing in long drips.

Molded Salad, Wedding Ideal

CHAMBORD MOLDED SALAD for wedding buffet suppers boasts asparagus, egg slices and vegetables all molded in gelatin.

Want to hear about rich and wonderful food? A tender, succulent combination of fresh vegetables, combined with chopped tarragon and mayonnaise and molded with sliced, hard - cooked eggs, beef, chicken or lobster, makes a regal dish for the wedding buffet.

We learned how to do it at Cafe Chambord in New York City. Famous for its de luxe French cuisine the world over, its cold salads and pate make summer dining a super experience. We watched the head chef, Marcel Grange, put these two dishes together. Here are our notes right out of Cafe Chambord's fabulous kitchen.

Molded Salad Chambord

Dice some carrots, potatoes, string beans, celery. Shell lima beans and peas. Cook all until just tender. Drain. When cold, season with salt, pepper, chopped tarragon and a few drops of lemon juice. Add ½ cup of mayonnaise. Mix well and chill.

Pour some gelatin in a metal mold. Use unflavored gelatin. Follow directions on package. Set the mold on chopped ice and turn it until the gelatin is evenly spread.

Decorate the inside of the mold with asparagus tips and sliced hard-cooked eggs. Add the vegetable salad and place in refrigerator for one hour. Then turn mold upside down on cold plate.

This can be served with cold salmon, lobster or cold ham. Serve with mayonnaise. Cold sliced beef, chicken or lobster can be substituted for the hard-cooked eggs to make the above salad.

Terrine de Canard (potted duck)

Skin 6-pound duck. Be careful not to damage the skin. Remove the two breasts. Bone legs and back and get off all the meat. Place the breasts in soup plate. Season with salt and pepper and a little allspice. If desired, pour ½ small glass brandy over them. Place in refrigerator.

Now combine all the other duck meat with 1 pound lean pork. Chop well. Combine with ½ pound fresh lard. Add the duck liver, 1 raw egg, 1 tablespoon arrowroot or cornstarch, 1 tablespoon chopped cooked shallots, 1 teaspon fresh parsley. Season with salt, pepper and all-spice. Put through meat chopper twice. If desired, add a few drops of brandy.

Use small oval earthenware casserole or bowl. Line carefully with the duck skin, pressing it close to sides. Fill half full of the chopped duck mixture. Next flatten the two breasts and lay on top. Add the remaining chopped duck mixture. Fold skin over top to cover completely.

Place the casserole or bowl in pan of water. Set in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) and bake for 2½ hours. When done, place weight (2 pounds, no heavier) on top for one hour. When cold, remove all fat and fill with port wine gelatin. Chill. This will serve 12.

Double Ring Cake Is Ohio Idea

DOUBLE-RING ANGEL CAKE for June weddings is elaborate looking, but easily made with two packages of angel food cake mix.

It's June—the month of brides. Mrs. Laura Williams of Wood County, O., makes wedding cakes for her friends in the local communities. She says, "I think that cake mix can't be beat, especially in wedding cakes."

Here's one of her best wedding cakes—lavish yet simple, feathery light and tender, white angel food with creamy white frosting:

Double-Ring Angel Wedding Cake

Two packages angel food mix. Angel Wedding Cake Frosting.

Prepare each package of angel food mix according to package directions. Bake in two 9 or 10-inch tube pans. Cool upside down until cold. Then remove from pans and brush off crumbs. Trim one side of each angel cake to make a flat edge.

Place cakes on tray with flat edges together to resemble a double ring. Spread frosting evenly over top and sides of cake and in center hole, making a flat base for decorating. Decorate with flowers, garlands and silver dragees.

Angel Wedding Cake Frosting

One - half cup shortening, ½ teaspoon salt, 7 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, 4 egg whites (unbeaten), ¼ cup cream (about), 2 teaspoons vanilla.

Cream shortening. Add salt and part of the sugar gradually, blending after each addition. Then add remaining sugar, alternately with egg whites, then with cream until of right consistency to spread, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla; blend. Spread frosting on cake, reserving some for decoration.

To reserved frosting, add additional sifted confectioners' sugar (about one cup), to make a very stiff frosting. Place frosting in decorating tube and decorate cake with garlands and flowers. If desired, use silver dragees and place bride and groom figures on top of cake. Real flowers and leaves add attractiveness at base of cake.

Many wild plants are suitable for eating as greens, including dandelions, watercress, stinging nettle, marsh marigold, wild onion, dock, lamb's quarters, and many others.

Four-Legged Vandal

GOSHEN, N. Y. (AP) — It looked like the worst kind of vandalism when Mrs. Charles Stiller, wife of a village trustee, unlocked the door and switched on the lights in the new house which she had left in apple-pie order when she and Stiller departed on a two-day holiday. Stiller had stopped off to attend a village board meeting, and after a quick call to him over the telephone Mrs. Stiller retired to the family car in the driveway and sat there shuddering until he arrived.

His inspection confirmed her hasty glimpse: table lamps upset, window plants on the floor and torn to bits, bric-a-brac knocked over and broken, a cookie from the kitchen half-eaten in the dining room floor. In the cookie Stiller sensed a clue. He built a good smudging fire in the fireplace, and the vandal shortly appeared — a gray squirrel much subdued by the smoke. But the Stillers are still picking up the pieces.

Try Out Penthouse Apple Pie For a Father's Day Dessert

Right in the center of New York City, Hal Lee grows apple trees in his penthouse garden on the 11th floor, Lexington Ave., at 90th Street. We went to take a look. Yes, crabapple trees and Cortlands rose up into the sky. So did fig trees, cherry and peach.

Odd as it seems, these penthouse trees bear fruit. Mr. Lee, of the green thumb, says his wife gets enough for a few fruit pies every year. He gave me their apple pie recipe. So make it for Dad—the first penthouse apple pie he ever had.

Deep-Dish Honey Apple Pies — Individual

One - quarter cup ready-to-eat bran, 1½ cups sifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening, 4 tablespoons cold water, 6 cups sliced tart apples, ¾ cup honey, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon lemon rind, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 teaspoons butter or margarine.

Crush bran into fine crumbs; combine with flour and salt. Cut in shortening. Add water, a little at a time, stirring until dough is moist enough to hold together. Roll out on lightly floured board to about ⅛ inch in thickness. Cut to fit individual baking dishes.

Arrange apples in individual baking dishes. Mix honey, lemon juice, lemon rind, salt and cinnamon; pour over apples. Dot with butter. Place pastry on top. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 50 to 60 minutes.

Dad may be an ice-cream-and-brownies-for-dessert boy. Then try these "brown babies" of Freda DeKnight of Chicago. She's one of the very best of cooks.

Brown Babies

Four squares baking chocolate, 4 eggs, 1 cup flour, ½ to 1 cup nut meats, broken, ½ pound butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 2 cups sugar.

Melt chocolate and butter together. Blend in well - beaten eggs. Sift dry ingredients and add chocolate mixture. Fold in nuts. Pour in greased oblong or square baking pan. Bake in moderate oven about 30 minutes. Cool. Cut in squares. Makes three dozen.

'53 State Fair Is Shaping Up As a Big Show

The 1953 Missouri State Fair is scheduled for Aug. 22 through 30, and as evidenced by signed contracts, the 51st presentation of this state-owned fair promises to offer one of the most sparkling entertainment programs ever presented to crowds that gather in Sedalia to view outstanding livestock, educational, industrial and mechanical displays.

Grand Circuit harness races, big car and stock car races, motorcycle races, along with spine tingling, death defying escapades of the Swenson Thrillcade and Joie Chitwood Daredevils will satisfy the thrill-hungry spectators' appetites for speed, thrills, spills, smashes and crashes.

Horse shows, a more elaborate stage show and musical revue, water carnival, wrestling, ham breakfast, massed band concerts by high school bands from all sections of Missouri are among the special events that will be featured during the nine day fair, with each day's activities closing with gorgeous fireworks display.

Experts Teach How to Broil Dad's Steak Most Skillfully

That superb, thick sirloin steak for Father's Day deserves the most skillful broiling. So let's talk about broiling steak.

Heat the broiling oven, and we mean hot. Next, slash the fat edge of the meat. This will prevent curling during cooking, our friends in Washington, D. C., cooking experts in the Department of Agriculture, tell us. Then, rub the broiler rack with a little trimmed - off fat. This will prevent the steak from sticking to it.

How long should it broil? Here are two sets of instructions. The first is from Beth Bailey McLean, director of Swift & Co.'s test kitchens and author of a best-selling book on meat cookery. Here's what Mrs. McLean advises:

In following the broiling schedules for a large sirloin, shorten broiling time a few minutes on the second side of the steak for uniform browning on each side. Remove from the broiler, season lightly, top with pats of fine butter, if desired, and serve very hot on a heated platter.

Mrs. McLean's Sirloin Broiling Schedule

One-inch steak, rare—10 minutes; medium rare—12 minutes; well done, 14 minutes.

One and a half - inch steak, rare—12 minutes; medium rare—14 minutes; well done — 16 minutes.

Our friends in the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, give these instructions:

Broil the steak until top side is well browned, season, then turn and brown on other side. (Stick fork into fat, not lean, when turning.) It is generally best to leave oven door open.

Broiling time for steaks — the table below is a guide to broiling time. Only approximate times can be given, because much depends on the broiler, personal preference in doneness of meat, and the meat itself.

Bureau's Sirloin Broiling Schedule

One - inch steak, rare — about 10 minutes; medium — about 15 minutes; well done — 20 to 25 minutes.

One and a half - inch steak, rare—about 15 minutes; medium—about 20 minutes; well done — 25 to 30 minutes.

There is a running controversy as to seasoning steak before or after broiling. In our house, we salt it and grind fresh black pepper over it in advance and let it stand at least one half hour. Incidentally, always have steak at room temperature before broiling, not refrigerator chilled.

A new tube for the automobile tire which seals itself instantly when punctured has been developed. It is said to be the first "puncture-proof" tube made entirely of the synthetic rubber known as butyl.

Weather Cuts-Up In State

West Portion Melts While Cold Front Cools The East

KANSAS CITY, June 11 (AP) — Western Missouri sweltered today in the hottest weather of the year.

The mercury here zoomed to 104 degrees, the hottest ever recorded here for this early in the season. Other hot points were Joplin and Sedalia, 102, and St. Joseph, 100.

While the western section of the state got hotter during the day, the mercury took a gymnastic turn in the eastern part of the state with variable results.

For instance at Jefferson City the mercury dropped from 96 to 78 degrees in 20 minutes. At Mexico, the story was much the same —from 96 to 78 in 30 minutes.

In Sedalia, the mercury stood at 102 at 2:50 p.m. and then skidded to 89 at 3:10. By 4 p.m. it was 81 and tapered off there, dropping only one degree by 6:30.

There were strange capers at Brookfield. At noon the mercury hit 97. Within an hour it dropped to 86 for no apparent reasons. There wasn't a cloud in the sky. Then the mercury began climbing and at 3 p.m. hit 98.

The weather bureau attributed these capers to a stationary cold front which cut diagonally across the state from northwest to southeast.

It was with guarded hopes that the bureau expressed the belief this front might possibly move to near Kansas City by tomorrow.

St. Louis had a stiff breeze which knocked the props out from under the heat wave. The mercury there hit 94 and then dropped to 78.5.

Heat deaths in the current heat wave stood at three, with one each at Kansas City, St. Louis and Ft. Leonard Wood.

It's A Record In KC

Today's 104 here eclipsed previous high marks of 101 for the date in 1918 and 1834. As far back as weather records go, the mercury had hit 101 only three times prior to June 15.

With St. Louis County residents warned to conserve water, a similar note was heard at Carthage. There H. J. Williams, superintendent of the city water plant asked residents to go easy on the water. He said no emergency existed, but pointed out that Wednesday the city used 2,000,000 gallons a new high for the city in one day's consumption.

The city has five wells. Williams said the water level in them had dropped 130 feet below the surface in the past 25 days.

FOUR FOR FOUR—This experienced mother robin, intent of preserving harmony among her offspring, returns to her ever-hungry family with four grasshoppers, one each for the outstretched mouths. House Group Votes To Cut Atomic Funds

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission bore the brunt of the latest budget slash drive today as the House Appropriations Committee approved an administration cut of half a billion dollars in AEC funds and added a few whacks of its own.

The commission, which received $4,124,621,500 from Congress this year, would get only $1,057,781,000 for the next fiscal year starting July 1 under a bill sent to the House floor for debate next week.

Former President Truman had recommended $1,592,789,000 for the agency in his January budget message. The Eisenhower administration cut the figure to $1,096,000,000 and the House committee lopped about 38 million dollars more off.

The bill also contains new funds for the selective service system, the Veterans Administration, and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Its over-all total is $5,284,369,664, a reduction of $1,171,389,000 or 18 per cent under Truman's budget requests for the four agencies, and about 6 per cent below the revised figures submitted by President Eisenhower.

Not all of the committee's revisions were downward. The group recommended six million dollars more than Truman had requested, and 31 million more than Eisenhower asked, for maintenance and operation of veterans hospitals. The big cut in VA funds were for readjustment benefits and for pensions and compensations.

The bill carries $4,008,335,264 for VA, compared with $4,574,214,664 recommended by Truman and $4,295,000,000 by Eisenhower. This year the VA received $4,144,703,960.

Selective service is allotted $29,382,400 as against Truman's request of $34,400,000 and Eisenhower's suggestion of approximately 30 million. This year the agency had $36,772,000.

New funds for the Tennessee Valley Authority would total $188,371,000 compared with Truman's recommendation of $254,355,000 and Eisenhower's request of $190,882,000. This year's appropriation was $336,027,000.

Slashes in Truman's request for AEC funds included 20 million in the weapons program. $15,700,000 in the source an fissionable materials program, and 22½ million in the reactor atomic furnace development program.

Heat Wave Won't Stop Santa's Kansas Visit

ARKANSAS CITY, June 11 —(AP)—The temperature shot up to 104 degrees today, but that didn't stop 35 pre-school age children from decorating a Christmas tree.

The children, members of the First Baptist Church vacation school, brought out imitation icicles and snow, frosted ornaments and holly wreaths in getting ready for a full-fledged Christmas party Sunday night. There'll even be a visit from Santa Claus.

Later, gifts will be sent to the Bacone Indian orphanage at Muskogee, Okla.

Knowland Sees Few Setbacks For President

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) predicted today Congress will enact a "good percentage" of President Eisenhower's legislative program, but he expressed doubt about the requested six-month extension of the excess profits tax.

Knowland also said proposals to revise the Taft-Hartley labor law and to broaden social security were on the doubtful list.

The California senator, who took over yesterday as acting Senate GOP floor leader from the ailing Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), told newsmen that these three big legislative items are "not necessarily dead."

But he said they are tied up in committee, and may have to lie over until the next session of Congress starts in January.

Knowland said the Senate is still aiming at a July 31 adjournment. Congress will remain in Washington, however, if the international situation should develop a sudden crisis, he said.

Commenting on the legislative worksheet, Knowland forecast passage of the folowing portions of the administration's program at this session:

1. Extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act.
2. The foreign aid bill.
3. Hawaiian statehood.
4. Simplification of U. S. customs.
5. Wheat shipment to famine-threatened Pakistan.
6. The 12 appropriations bills, in-cluding the multi-billion-dollar budget.

Knowland gave that summary of the legislative outlook in a speech before the Machinery and Allied Products Institute's annual conference here.

Industry Hopes To Harness Atom In Power Plants

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP) — The Joint Atomic Energy Committee disclosed today that a group of industrialists "have an intense interest in development of an atomic power breeder" capable of producing atomic power in competition with normally -produced power.

The committee's announcement was made by Chairman Cole (R-NY) following a closed session attended by representatives of the Detroit Edison Company, the Dow Chemical Company and the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Cole said the discussion involved production of atomic power for industrial use "simultaneously with production of other products of the irradiation process, including weapon materials such as plutonium."

The proposal of the group, he said, is dependent on a federally-financed research and development program in conjunction with privately-financed effort.

GOP Leader To Speak At St. Louis Dinner

ST. LOUIS, June 11 (AP)—Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, will be the principal speaker at the $100-a-plate "Eisenhower Victory Dinner" here June 24.

The former congressman from New York will be making his first party policy speech in the Midwest at the dinner sponsored by Missouri Republicans to open their campaign for the 1954 congressional elections.

Prosecutor Pays Fine In Carthage's Court

CARTHAGE, Mo., June 11 (AP)—Vernie Crandall, city attorney, believes in prosecuting to the fullest extent the law—even at his own expense.

His car was tagged with an overtime parking ticket. At the week's session of police court, Crandall was among the violators shelling out $1 to pay the fine.

Whether you're a politician, a family man, or a business man, whenever you begin to feel you are so important that the circle within which you operate may have a hard time getting along without you, just remember this:

If the body of an average man were squeezed into a perfect solid, the resulting matter would be so small that it would just be visible under a microscope.

Czechs, Poles Agree To Serve On PW Repatriation Council

LONDON, June 11 (AP) — Red Czechoslovakia and Poland have agreed to serve on a five-nation neutral commission to care for Korean War prisoners refusing repatriation, the Prague and Warsaw radios announced tonight.

The Prague broadcast of a communique by Ceteka, official Czech news agency, preceded by about an hour the Warsaw broadcast.

The broadcast said that "the government of Poland has expressed consent to have its representatives sit on official bodies mentioned in a draft of an agreement on an armistice in Korea.

Poland is delighted to see prospects of an early end being put to the bloodshed in Korea and is ready on her part to contribute to a peaceful settlement of the Korean conflict."

The Prague broadcast said:

"The government of the Czech Republic, upon the request of the governments of the Chinese Republic, the Korean Peoples Republic and the United States of America, has agreed to appoint its representatives for the repatriation commission of neutral states according to the agreement on the repatriation of prisoners of war in Korea signed at Panmunjom on June 8.

"The government of the Czechoslovak Republic is doing so in the spirit of the policy of peaceful cooperation among nations and so solving the international issues by peaceful means in conformity with the principles of justice and law."

U. N. and Communist armistice negotiators in Korea agreed that the five-man neutral commission would be composed of representatives of Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Switzerland, Poland and India. Thus far Czechoslovakia, Poland and Sweden have formally accepted the invitation to serve. Switzerland, which first said it could not serve if South Korea objected to the truce plan, later changed its position to one of qualified acceptance.

India's Prime Minister Nehru said yesterday his country was prepared to help supervise the repatriation of Korean War prisoners but would have to consider its position if South Korean troops break away from the U. N. Command.

Chinese Step-Up Assault

Red Troops Break ROK Line But Fail Before US Defenses

SEOUL, Friday, June 12 (AP) — The Korean front thundered with some of the heaviest fighting and cannonading of the past two years yesterday on what seemed almost the eve of a final armistice agreement.

Advancing behind one of the war's greatest barrages, from 8,000 to 10,000 Chinese Communists struck the Central and Eastern Fronts, broke the main South Korean line in the east, but were stopped with heavy losses by the U. S. Third Division in the center.

The break in the South Korean line was a local penetration of no serious consequences since roads southward lead nowhere, but the Reds defied all Allied counterattacks. Fighting raged on peaks more than half a mile high.

It was the first such loss of territory the Allies have suffered since the front stabilized in November of 1951.

Chinese guns and mortars opened up Wednesday night in the east on a 2,000-yard front spanning three hill positions held by the Republic of Korea's Fifth Division.

Shelling mounted steadily until by morning the Reds had fired 54,000 rounds by Eight Army count —probably the greatest single Communist barrage of the war and a whopper even by Allied standards.

It Equals Our Best

It equalled the Allies best day of firing in last November's Kumhwa Ridge battle, as well as some of World War II barrages on a narrow front.

At midnight, two regiments of Communist infantry, 6,000 to 7,000 men, poured through the artillery fire and into the ROK trenches in wild hand-to-hand fighting.

By dawn, the Reds had the three hills and had pushed a 1,500-man force southwestward through the main line of resistance along a ridgeline. The the attack was held.

All day long, starting with earliest morning, the ROK's counter-attacked. During the day they re-gained one of the three hills, only to lose it again as night fell. Heavy fighting continued into the night as the ROKs, who have been threatening to carry the war alone against the Communists, were put upon their mettle.

Simultaneously, more than 1,000 Chinese attacked several positions held by the U. S. Third Division on the Central Front northeast of Chorwon.

Troops of the 15th Regiment drove back the main attack on Outpost Harry, ten miles northeast of Chorwon, and smaller Red assaults nearby.

Foe Loses 600 Men

The Third Division estimated about 600 Chinese killed or wounded. There was no estimate of enemy casualties in the East-Central Front fighting.

The renewed Red attack came while staff officers at Panmunjom moved toward agreement on the final details of an armistice.

The attacks appeared to be more "muscle flexing"—the term Lt. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Eighth Army commander, used last month to describe Red attacks then.

Feed Grains Advance While Others Decline In Chicago's Trade

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP) — Feed grains raced higher on the Board of Trade today while wheat and soybeans moved downward.

A firming tone in corn and oats developed shortly after the opening, which was lower in all pits. These cereals climbed slowly throughout the session and for the most part closed at the day's peak prices.

Wheat finished ¼-⅞ lower, corn ¾-1⅛ higher, oats ⅝ to 1 cent higher, rye ¼ to 1 cent higher, and soybeans 1¼ to ¼ cents lower.

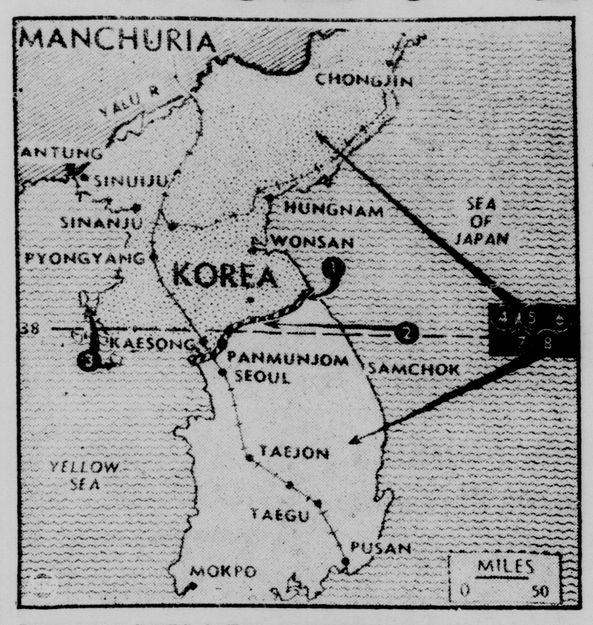

Action of the feed grains was based mainly on the news, available only a few minutes before the market closed yesterday, that the Agriculture Department would buy additional grain storage space to help house the country's enormous stocks of grain.

The advance came despite quite large cash corn receipts and a drop of 1 to 2 cents in spot market prices. Premiums of the cash grain over the July future were further lowered. Corn was helped, however, by the sale of 800,000 bushels to Mexico.

Wheat and soybeans could not respond to the grain storage news because they had individual depressing items with which to contend. In wheat, it was the government crop report; in soybeans, the prospect of lower government cottonseed support price.

House Group Approves Ban On Fireworks Transport

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—The House Judiciary Committee today approved a bill to prohibit the transportation of fireworks into states with laws banning their use.

PROBABLE STEPS AFTER ARMISTICE—Outlined on the map above are the steps that probably will be taken once the armistice is signed in Korea:

1. Within 12 hours after the truce signing all hostilities will cease.

2. Within three days, troops on each side will withdraw two kilometers (1.2 miles) from the existing front, creating a two-and-one-half-mile buffer zone. All fortifications within the demilitarized area would be destroyed. This demilitarizing of the neutral zone will not, however, affect Communist fortifications behind the zone, or United Nations reserve lines behind the present front line.

3. Within five days, both sides will withdraw their forces from islands located on opposite sides of the truce line. These islands are mainly in the hands of UN forces and have been invaluable as radar stations and as bases for obtaining information from behind enemy lines.

4. A commission, consisting of representatives of both sides and of four neutral nations, will be set up to enforce the truce.

5. The size of forces on each side will be frozen as of the time of the armistice signing, although each side may rotate or replace 35,000 troops a month.

6. Continued building of "non-military" airfields will be permitted on either side of the demilitarized neutrol zone. The Communists have the advantage on this point since they will be able to rehabilitate North Korean airfields and communications. Prior to an armistice UN bombing has forced all Red aircraft to bases north of the Yalu River.

7. Within two months after the signing of the truce agreement, all prisoners who wish to be repatriated will be exchanged.

8. Within three months, both sides will get together for a political conference on issues that still remain to be settled.

President Warns Aggressors Against Attacking America

MT. RUSHMORE, S. D., June 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower today warned would-be aggressors aggressors against attacking against attacking America "except at your peril," and then told a Republican rally his administration is dedicated to winning free world security against Communism.

The President sounded the warning in a speech at Garrison Dam ceremonies at Riverside, N. D.

He told an applauding crowd of 5,000 persons there the United States must "keep our material strength great" and say to all others:

"Do not attack us except at your peril, because we are going to live under God as free, secure and peaceful people."

Here at Mt. Rushmore National Memorial in the South Dakota Black Hills, the President told the convention of the National Federation of Young Republicans the party's future depends on advancing a program serving "the interests and needs of all our citizens."

'There's Been A Change'

Speaking against the backdrop of the colossal stone images of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt, Eisenhower told an audience of about 6,000 "there has been a change in Washington."

He said the new administration is "profoundly young in spirit," and that men in charge "are uncompromised by years of political promises and campaign oratory."

At the outdoor rally, the President declared the new regime has made a "good beginning" toward winning free world collective security, modernizing military defense plans, and insuring "equal civil rights to all our citizens."

He also said the party, since January, has opened an effective attack on crime and corruption, and has moved to keep subversies and security risks out of federal jobs. That task is being tackled, he added, "with a vigor long overdue."

Eisenhower left Mt. Rushmore by car for the game lodge at Custer State Park where he will spend Friday fishing and relaxing. This was the game lodge's second presidential visit. Calvin Coolidge vacationed there in 1927.

Warm receptions greeted Eisenhower at each stop in North Dakota and South Dakota. "Hi Ike:" cards blossomed all along the route of the presidential caravan.

Eisenhower said an essential part of last year's electoral division was the people's "serious summons to restore balance and order and sense and continuity to our national policies."

President Has 3 Ways To Work

He said the chief executive can achieve needed results only by patient persuasion, sound argument, and friendly contacts.

But, he said, "government must not allow its policies to be caught in the fatal crossfire of a Congress and an executive warring upon one another."

He added: "Such a condition is not going to prevail if it is within the power of this administration to prevent it. For our very form of government is in peril unless each branch willingly accepts and discharges its own clear responsibilities and respects the rights and responsibilities of others."

Senate Clears First Big Bill On Federal Funds

WASHINGTON, June 11—(AP)—The first of 12 big appropriation bills to finance the government through another year cleared the Senate today and went to the White House.

The measure, passed by voice vote, carries $3,444,145,000 to operate the Treasury and Post Office Departments in the fiscal year starting July 1.

This is $5,425,000 less than the two departments received for the current year and $127,983,000 less than former President Truman proposed in his January budget.

Both the Senate Appropriations Committee and the Senate itself accepted the House figures without change, something that Capitol veterans couldn't recall ever witnessing before.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) tried to cut the Post Office Department's appropriation by $33,450,000, but lost, 44 to 31. Douglas, declaring the Post Office was "notorious for its inefficiencies," said the money he sought to eliminate would "provide 7,500 new juicy jobs."

He was supported by 26 other Democrats and four Republicans, but they were overruled by 32 Republicans, 11 Democrats and one independent.

ROK Leader Vows To Fight Chinese Without Our Aid

SEOUL, Friday, June 12 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee regretfully disagreed yesterday with President Eisenhower's armistice views and reaffirmed a "fight on alone" policy as long as Red China's soldiers remain in Korea.

Even before Rhee issued his statement which was conciliatory in tone although showing no retreat. South Korea's Cabinet met and once more decided against accepting "any part of the armistice terms."

Rhee warned his countrymen they were "subject to stern punishment" for any violence against Allied personnel in anti-armistice demonstrations, which for the first time caused bloodshed Thursday.

At the temporary capital of Pusan South Korean police said a U. S. soldier shot and slightly wounded two Koreans out of a student group milling around an Army bus. Whether the shooting was accidental or deliberate was not immediately determined.

Rhee's statement declared "the foreign friends are also wished to be discreet and careful enough in expressing their views. The predicament we are in today is too dangerous."

Crowds Are Orderly

The third day of continuing demonstrations against the impending armistice brought out huge but orderly crowds in Seoul and other population centers in the south. The only violence was at Pusan.

Shortly after Rhee issued his warning against unfriendly acts or statements, Seoul metropolitan police anounced that headquarters of the U. S. Eighth Army, the U. S. Embassy, Fifth Air Force and correspondents billets were "off limits" to demonstrators.

The bulk of Rhee's remarks appeared to reply publicly for the first time to Eisenhower's letter Sunday which called on him to accept a truce in which the Communists abandoned the "fruits of aggression."

"President Eisenhower of the United States, whose sympathy and friendship with us are undoubted, has recently expressed his views that a truce in Korea will be advantageous to this country in many ways," Rhee said. "We regret it very much, however, that we take a view differently to his friendly advice and that this is unavoidable because a truce on the present terms simply means a death to us.

"We have been explaining this point to our allies and we intend to do so continually," he added.

Rhee said the "crucial point" of his opposition to a truce was based on the provision which permits "enemy troops to remain in our land."

Chinese Must Go

"Our appeal to our allies has been made on this point and we have consistently demanded that the Chinese Communist forces should be driven out of our territory, if in so doing, we have to fight by ourselves."

Rhee has proposed withdrawal of both Allied and Chinese forces from Korea and a free hand in unifying the country with a U. S. pledge of immediate aid if attacked by the Reds. He wanted the defense pact in advance of a truce.

Eisenhower offered a defense pact after a truce is signed.

Dr. You Says UN Threatens Arms Embargo

PHILADELPHIA, June 11 (AP)—The South Korean ambassador to the U. S. said today his country had been threatened with an embargo by United Nations officials on military supplies and food unless Korea agrees to the proposed truce terms.

Dr. You Chan Yang made his statement during a press conference here following a speech delivered at the opening of a blood donor center.

They are trying to force our government, trying actually with various threats," he said, "to force us to accept the truce terms."

He was asked if he meant the threats had been made by officials of the United States government. He replied he meant "officials of the United Nations."

In Washington, a State Department spokesman declared that "any implications that the United States uses famine and human suffering for political purposes is false and those who make such statements know that it is false."

This amounted to a denial of any threat of cutting off food supplies but left unchallenged Dr. You's assertion regarding an embargo on military supplies.

It is understood that the U. S. has in fact made it plain to the South Koreans that they could not expect this country to furnish munitions for a purpose contrary to declared American policy.

United Nations officials at headquarters in New York pointed out the world organization had no direct or indirect connection with such supplies to Korea. They suggested that the only possible reference would be to the unified command of the United Nations in the Korean fighting which has been assigned to the United States.

No U. N. official as distinct from American government official, has been in contact with the truce negotiations. All the U. N. knows about those talks is through the newspapers or in reports presented to its through the U. S. mission to the U. N.

Dr. You declared the United States "has been pushed against the wall by some of her so-called allies."

"The United States is in a very difficult position," he said. "We know that."

"You ask me why the United Nations have accepted all of these Communist demands?" the ambassador went on. "They want peace —may I say, parenthetically, peace at any cost—to appease the Communists at any price.

"I tell you, it is not peace—it will be the bloodiest peace in history."

Federal Judge Studies' Draft-Refusal Case

KANSAS CITY, June 11—(AP)—Federal Judge Albert A. Ridge today took under advisement the case of George Harcus Lowe, 21, Hutchinson, Kan., charged with refusing induction into the armed forces.

Judge Ridge gave the prosecution five days in which to file supporting memoranda.

Lowe was indicted on the charge last April 16. In his non-jury trial, Lowe testified he was entitled to immunity from the draft because of his status as a minister. He said he had been a member of Jehovah's Witnesses since he was 10 years old.

Sunstroke Takes Toll In Heat-Burned India

BOMBAY, India, June 11—(AP)—Official reports today said scores of Indians are dying daily from sunstroke in a record heat wave that reached a daytime high of 123 degrees on the Deccan Plateau of Middle South India.

Sunstroke deaths in the past week were estimated above 400.

Cholera was reported raging in Surat, forcing a closedown of schools so they can be used for hospitals. Sixty-three fatalities were reported there in a week.

Dressy Gunman Nabs $850 in Wichita Firm

WICHITA, Kan., June 11—(AP)—A gunman robbed the Federal Savings and Loan Association of $850, all in bills, today.

The bandit, with red hair and wearing a white dress shirt, had been loitering around the front entrance for about 15 minutes before going in, pulling out a gun and demanding the money.

House Committee Votes Slash In Ike's Foreign Aid Setup

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee sliced 476 million dollars from the administration's $5,474,000,000 foreign aid bill today and amended it in an effort to prod Western Europe into setting up a unified defense army.

The amendment would withhold more than one billion dollars in military aid from six European nations unless they ratify the European Defense Community plan. This calls for an international army in which West Germans would participate.

The amendment apparently runs counter to President Eisenhower's expressed policy of not using a financial club in international affairs. The President stepped in June 2 to persuade the Senate to abandon a proposal that the United States withhold its contributions to the United Nations if Red China became a member.

Yesterday Eisenhower spoke out against "dictation," telling a Minneapolis audience that dictation "is not the way free men associate."

The committee voted 18 to 5 in favor of the 476 million dollar cut, and Chairman Chipperfield (R-Ill) called it "a fair bill." It may reach the House floor in the middle of next week.

Eisenhower asked for $5,474,000,000 in military and economic aid for America's allies after knocking out more than two billion dollars from the mutual security program drawn up by President Truman before he left office in January.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved the bill yesterday with a relatively small reduction of 162 million dollars.

But the House group sliced much deeper, recommending cuts of 100 million dollars each in funds earmarked for military aid to Europe, military aid to the Middle East, and economic aid to Europe.

It voted to cut a special weapons development program from 250 million to 100 million. It also cut 25 million from a program to exploit basic materials, and one million from a fund to pay ocean freight on relief packages sent abroad by private organizations.

The EDC amendment was approved by a 2 to 1 majority of the committee.

Rep. Richards of South Carolina, ranking Democratic member of the committee, sponsored the amendment designed to induce France, Belgium, Holland, Italy and Luxembourg to join Western Germany in ratifying EDC.

Richards said the amendment "should strengthen the hand of the secretary of state and European statesmen" in getting individual parliaments to approve the EDC, with its international army.

Mrs. Fagan's Roses Receive Top Awards

Her Friends Entered Flowers After She Refused to Do So

The woman who was too reluctant to enter her roses in the Rose Show held Friday afternoon and evening at the Little Theatre, sponsored by the Sedalia Rose Society, received the gold certificate from the National Rose Society for her rose, Mirandy, chosen the queen of the show. She is Mrs. Oscar Fagan and the roses from her garden were brought to the Rose Show by friends who just cut them and brought them after she couldn't be talked into entering them herself.

Not only that, but Mrs. Fagan also received the silver award for the second best rose, Peace.

The bronze certificate was awarded Mrs. P. L. Strole, Sedalia, on her rose, Cedric Adams.

Each year a silver bowl trophy is presented to the person having the largest number of points for horticulture in the show and a pair of silver candlesticks to the person having the largest number of points for arrangements.

The winner of the silver bowl this year was Ed Brummet, who had 94 points. Mrs. H. C. Sammons, with 31 points, won the candlesticks.

The bowl and candlesticks will be kept by the winner until next year when they are passed on to the next winners. This is the fourth year for the bowl, with John Schlaffer receiving it the first year, Perry L. Strole, the second, and Mrs. Herbert Seifert the third.

It is the second year for the candlesticks and Mrs. Seifert also won the candlesticks last year, giving her use of the entire set for the year.

The judges of the show were Mrs. Lester B. Satterlee and Mrs. H. L. Robison, both of Kansas City, who were high in their praise of the show and particularly of the arrangements which were very unusual in a rose show of this size.

The most outstanding arrangement of the show, according to the judges, was the one entitled, "Winter Rapture" of evergreen and small bright red roses. The evergreen was in the shape of a Christmas tree with the small roses as decorations. The arrangement was made by Mrs. H. C. Sammons.

The second place arrangement in the show was "Autumn Splendor", with yellow roses in a brass bowl, also by Mrs. H. C. Sammons.

The third, "Springtime", with pink roses in a shallow crystal bowl—with the roses reflecting in the water—was by Mrs. C. L. Carter.

Honorable mention went to Mrs. P. L. Strole for her madonna.

The ten best roses of the show were on a lace covered table, honor guard for the queen of the rose, in this year of the coronation. The honor guard was composed of McGredy's Ivory, Charlotte Armstrong, Taffeta, and Rochester, all grown by Ed Brummet, Dainty Bess by Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, the tea rose, Peace, by Mrs. W. H. Eichholz, Crimson Glory, Mrs. Curtis Christy, Warrensburg.

In keeping with the theme of the Rose Show, "Show Me" Roses in Missouri, the Highway department donated new Missouri maps to be given to guests at the show.

All afternoon and evening a large crowd viewed the roses and the register showed visitors from Tulsa, Okla., Topeka, Kan., Houston, Tex., Sacremento, Calif., Keokuk, Ia., and from all of the communities around Sedalia.

The awards were announced by the president of the Sedalia Rose Society, Victor Gill.

Mrs. Herbert Seifert was chairman of the show with Mrs. H. C. Sammons as co-chairman. Committee chairmen were: Mrs. Sammons, schedule; Mrs. Ed Brummet, entries; Oscar DeWolf, staging; Gilbert Jones, advertising; Mrs. P. L. Strole, publicity and Mrs. W. F. Koenig hospitality and information.

Warsaw Lions Speed Boat Races June 14

Speed Boat racing is to be resumed on the upper end of the Lake of the Ozarks, Sunday June 14, when the Warsaw Lions Club sponsors a program of eight major races. The race program has been scheduled to get underway at 1 p. m. Cooperating with the Lions is the St. Louis Outboard Racing Association which group has promised a big entry for the day of racing.

Arrangements have been made by the Lions to handle an exceptionally large crowd and the bigger the better.

Contestants will be racing for a total of $650 in prize monies.

Funds obtained through the event will be used by the Lions on their Youth Program, which is one of the big projects of that organization. Much work is done by the Warsaw Lions on this program.

Races Are Sanctioned

Mrs. Kemp's Condition Very Bad Following Operation In London

LONDON (AP) — Mayor William E. Kemp of Kansas City said today his wife's condition was "very bad" following a brain tumor operation at London's Maudsley Hospital.

Mayor Kemp is a former resident of La Monte, his native town, and he and his wife are well known there.

"The doctors said this morning that her general condition is a little improved," the mayor said, "but they cannot give me very much hope yet of her coming through this operation."

Mrs. Kemp, who is 59, was operated on Monday by a British specialist. The mayor said that since then Mrs. Kemp has been in "a profound sleep" from which the doctors have been unable to waken her.

Mrs. Kemp became ill on May 20, complaining of impaired vision, while accompanying the mayor on a motor trip to Nottingham, England, where they were guests of the city for three days. The Kansas City couple arrived at Southhampton on May 18 aboard the liner Queen Mary.

Missouri River, Up To Flood Stage, Drops

ST. JOSEPH (AP) — The Missouri River, after cresting at 17.2 feet last night, began falling and this morning had dropped to a stage of 16.9. Flood stage here is 17 feet.

Col. E. E. Browning, area engineer, who said the rise was the result of rains to the north, expects the drop to continue on the basis of upstream reports.

A preliminary survey of the river in this area failed to show any serious damage along the banks.

Mrs. Belle Bobbitt, Pettis' Oldest Resident, Dies at 103

Mrs. Belle Bobbitt, 103, Pettis County's oldest resident, died at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday at her home in the Dunksburg vicinity, nine miles northwest of LaMonte, where she lived with her daughter, Mrs. Cora Bragunier.

Daughter of William McCoy and Nancy Ruckman Wade, she was born in Highland County, Va., April 16, 1850. In 1865 she came to Missouri with her parents, the long and slow journey being in a covered wagon pulled by an ox team.

When necessary to cross a stream that could not be forded, a ferry boat was used.

Arriving in Missouri, the family located in Cooper County and after her marriage to Thomas Bobbitt the couple came to Pettis County to reside. Mr. Bobbitt died in 1911. Her husband, a native of Pulaski County, Ky., was a Union soldier in the Civil War. After coming to Missouri, the home she had occupied and the land about it was purchased in 1868, was her resident through that intervening term of years.

Mrs. Bobbitt was a member of the Mt. Zion Christian Church and attended worship services regularly as long as health and strength permitted. Due to her advanced age and weakness in declining years, she had been bedfast for over a year. Her infirmities and failing eyesight shut her off in a measure for the world she had enjoyed to fullest through her longevity, but until recent years she read extensively and had kept fully informed of current events.

Radical changes through the

Mrs. Belle Bobbitt

years brought to her memory the hardships and successes of the time when she and her family went through them and often she would recall memorable dates and incidents when friends called at her home.

Besides the daughter, Mrs. Bragunier, she is survived by a son, Dexter Bobbitt, Sweet Springs and numerous other relatives.

Two children preceded her in death, John Elmer, who drowned in 1911 and Foy A., who died in 1938.

The body was taken to the Parker-Moore Funeral Home in La Monte.

Funeral services will be at Mt. Zion Christian Church at 1:30 p. m. Friday with burial in the church cemetery.

St. Louis Police Win Time-Off For Inquests

ST. LOUIS, June 11—(AP)—The Board of Police Commissioners today ordered district commaners to give officers time off to make up for hours spent in court and during coroner's inquests.

The step was taken as a partial compensation for failure of a pay raise proposal to pass. The city's board of estimate and apportionment refused to approve the pay measure for submission to the state legislature unless the city's earnings tax was extended.

The board noted that sometimes an officer goes off duty at 7 a. m., then must appear in court at 9 a. m. sometimes for the whole day.

President I. A. Long of the board said overtime pay cannot be made under law because a police officer is considered on duty 24 hours a day.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

The impression was growing in Allied circles last night that, willingly or unwillingly, Syngman Rhee will drop his intransigent attitude about a Korean truce when the chips are really down.

The Allies, headed by the United States, have plenty of pressure to be used on Rhee in the showdown. It will be used if necessary. Or he may see that he is working himself into an impossible situation and give up the fight. In the meantime, while a truce demarcation line is being drawn, he has a few more days in which to blow his patriotic trumpets.

Rhee doesn't have to reverse himself in order to let the truce go through. All he has to do is fall silent. South Korean troops are under United Nations Command, and unless he tries to pull them out of that command before the armistice is signed, they will take orders about cease-fire and withdrawal from the demarcation line just like other troops.

If he should try to pull them out of the Allied command before the truce, the Allied nutcracker will go to work on him in earnest. If he should try to defy U. N. orders after a signing, the Allies would not be responsible for what the Communist forces did to his forces. The Allies would themselves be required to help control the situation on a basis of local insurgency wherever South Korean troops threatened to violate the truce line.

The situation would just not be one which the South Koreans would be capable of facing.

The issue for the Allies is too great to permit disruption of the truce prospects. There are only two alternatives to a truce. One is a vastly intensified war effort, at a cost which no one is willing to contemplate, and at the risk of setting off a general war.

The other is complete withdrawal from the Korean affair, which can hardly be contemplated. That would be to give the Communists a victory which they could not attain by arms. It would kill the hope of collective security for many small nations which would immediately start running for some other cover. Many of them would wind up in Russian thralldom. It might encourage Russian jingoism to the point where a direct outbreak on her part would become a daily threat, rather than the off chance which it is now considered.

The Allies have largely quit worrying now about the possibility of a last-minute switch on the part of the Reds which would break up the truce negotiations. The Swiss have qualifiedly agreed to act on the prisoner of war commission despite earlier doubts due to Rhee's stand. India is still a bit worried about the South Korean threat to oppose the entry of her POW supervisory troops But both undoubtedly have been told that Rhee will not be permitted to make any actual physical resistance against the armistice or to violate its terms once made. There seems little doubt that when the day of truce-signing arrives, Rhee will have been quelled.

Says A-bombs Might Cause Tornado Series

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Madden (D-Ind) said today he will push his proposal for a congressional investigation into whether atomic tests in Nevada have anything to do with the tornadoes striking the country at a possible record rate.

The weather bureau, the Atomic Energy Commission and some key congressmen insist there is no evidence of any connection.

But two senior members of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee—Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) and Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa)—said a public inquiry might help clarify the question. However, both added in separate interviews that atomic scientists have assured them atomic tests do not change the weather.

Madden called on the House Armed Services committee yesterday to conduct a formal investigation, since the Nevada tests are being conducted by the Army.

Chairman Short (R-Mo), however, told newsmen the question is beyond the committee's authority. But he has not yet answered Madden's letter requesting the probe.

Madden said in an interview he would ask the joint Atomic Energy Committee to make the investigation if the Armed Services group turns him down.

The Bureau said 249 tornadoes have been reported so far this year, possibly a record for the 35 years in which such counts have been kept. The average in the past 35 years has been 109 tornadoes for the first six months of each.

However, a weather bureau spokesman said its improved tornado reporting service may partly account for the big total recorded this year.

Milton L. Blanc, chief of the bureau's local and special services section, said there was no possible connection between the atomic tests and the tornadic outburst.

Compared with the natural force of tornadoes, Blanc said, an atomic explosion is "a small thing."

The AEC said it is working closely with the weather bureau to determine the effects of the atomic experiments. A spokesman said the AEC is convinced the Nevada tests had no influence on the weather.

"We wouldn't be holding the tests if we thought they would create tornadoes," he added.

Cooper, Among 10 'Most Wanted', Nabbed Thursday

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gordon Lee Cooper, who was placed on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted fugitives exactly a month ago, was seized by FBI agents Thursday while in a parked car.

The 38-year-old Cooper offered no resistance but had a loaded sawed-off shotgun on the seat beside him when the FBI agents closed in on him in the 3300 block of North 20th Street.

Some stolen Illinois license plates also were found in the machine, which Cooper said he stole in Detroit, Mich., the FBI said.

The FBI agents said Cooper, whose early years were spent at Gideon, Mo., came to St. Louis recently from Michigan. He told FBI agents he had been employed by an automobile manufacturing company in Michigan for the past few months.

The FBI would not disclose how the agents located the 150-pound fugitive, who carries bullet scars on his legs and chest.

"He had been the subject of rather intensive investigation for several months," an agent said. "All we can say is that the search centered on him in St. Louis late Wednesday and early Thursday."

Cooper was taken to FBI headquarters here to await a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Edwin Bean. The FBI said he probably would be turned over to state authorities at Poplar Bluff, Mo., where he is wanted for breaking out of the Butler County jail and beating and robbing a deputy sheriff on duty there on May 27, 1952.

Commissioner bean fixed bond at $10,000 and Cooper was taken to the city jail pending his return to Poplar Bluff.

As he was being taken to the commissione's office, Cooper objected to being handcuffed. He cursed, struggled with two federal agents, and finally wept.

In the jail break, Copper and another prisoner slugged the deputy with a home-made blackjack and then robbed him. The other prisoner was captured but Cooper made his getaway in a pickup truck later found abandoned in Tennessee.

Cooper was held in the jail at Poplar Bluff on a charge of robbing the post office at Painton, Mo., in Stoddard County, where he once lived.

Slender and wiry with brown curly hair, Cooper was described by the FBI as "embittered against society" but with an ability to make friends easily when he wishes to do so.

Cooper replaced Fred W. Bowerman on the "most wanted" list after Bowerman was fatally wounded April 24 in a gun battle with police during an attempted robbery of the Southwest Bank of St. Louis.

Cooper's criminal career dates back to 1931 when he was sentenced to a reformatory in Missouri for car theft. He has also been imprisoned at the U. S. reformatory at El Reno, Okla., the U. S. penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind., the Arkansas state penitentiary and the Missouri penitentiary for car theft, probation violations, grand larceny and forgery.

County's Assessed Value Up $2 Million

More Than $1,000,000 of Increase Comes In Sedalia Real Estate; More Neat Cattle Noted With 50 Pct. Fewer Hogs on Feed

The 1953 assessment on total taxable property—real and personal—in Pettis County, including Sedalia, is almost two million dollars more than it was last year.

More than a million dollars of this is in Sedalia real estate alone. Most of this probably could be attributed to the more than one million dollars worth of building construction that was done in 1952.

Also reflected in the assessment figures just released is an increase in the number of meat cattle, although there was a decrease in the average valuation of the cattle. On the other hand, the number of hogs being raised dropped almost 50 per cent, and the average valuation went up another $3.48.

Biggest change was in poultry, with an increase of 32,949. There was a decrease in average valuation per fowl of 12 cents.

Corporation assessments went up more than $9,000 for a total of $611,657.

Total country acreage was diminished by 70 acres for a total of 421,690, while the city of Sedalia picked it up in the form of 216 lots, most of it probably in the Woodlawn addition west of town. The city now has 8,825 lots assessed at $14,530,590, plus 98 lots belonging to railroads and locally assessed in the amount of $237,165, bringing the total city real estate figure to $14,767,755. Last year the city's total real estate assessment was $13,672,065, which means that this year the assessment was raised $1,095,690.

County acreage for 1953 totaled 421,863, including 243 acres belonging to the railroads, for a total assessment of $15,034,260.

Total real estate assessment for 1953 is $29,802,015, an increase of approximately $1,100,000.

Assessments on power, farm and other machinery was increased approximately $120,000 to a figure of $1,293,580. Household property assessment also went up to $1,274,160, approximately a $138,000 increase.

The number of neat cattle in the county is now 43,369, an increase of almost 3,000. They were assessed at $2,351,130.

The number of hogs dropped to 22,792 from last year's figure of 41,294, with a total valuation of $241,560.

This year's poultry count is 191,165, valued at $73,020.

Other 1953 personal property assessments are as follows: Horses, mares and geldings, $33,130; asses and jennets, $190; mules, $3,130; sheep, $37,050; goats, $30; bee colonies, $220; trucks, airplanes and all other motor vehicles, $4,660,360; all other personal property, $581,870.

The total assessment on taxable property in Pettis County—both real and personal—is $40,963,102. Last year's figure was $39,159,789.12. The new assessment represents an increase of $1,803,312.88.

Bill Permits Resorts to Fix Small Lake Dams

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Phil M. Donnelly signed into law today a bill to prevent flood damage to little recreation and resort lakes in Missouri.

Carrying an emergency clause, it went into effect immediately so owners of such dams could make needed repairs at once.

There are a lot of little dams on Missouri streams that once were used to impound water of milling or power operations. But in these days the mills no longer are necessary. Still the years-old lakes provide good boating, swimming and fishing and the owners of many such sites have built up resorts or recreational properties.

The old law wouldn't let them repair the dams unless they were being used for milling or water power. The new law was passed this year so the now sagging dams could be repaired before floods wash them out entirely.

The governor also signed these other bills that become effective Aug. 29. They would:

Let third and fourth class cities levy a special tax of up to 60 cents a front foot for sprinkling, oiling or maintaining streets.

Permit destruction of old records of Missouri's 40-year-old Public Service Commission, a utility regulating body.

Yesterday the governor signed a bill setting up a "Little Hoover" commission to correct any faults it finds in the operation of Missouri's big government.

The bill calls for a 12-member commission, including four house members, four senators and four citizens appointed by the governor.

Donnelly recommended such a study in his inaugural address. He was governor his first time back in 1945 when the present departments of the state's governments were set up. They're still in the same shape but Donnelly said he thought som improvements could be made after a careful study.

He said the reorganization commission probably could find ways to increase governmental efficiency, eliminate duplication of work and cut the cost.

Judge Is Overruled, Has to Wear Trousers Beneath His Robe

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Justice John Brett was overruled by fellow judges of the State Criminal Court of Appeals yesterday.

They felt he had gone overboard for comfort.

It was a hot day. Their judicial robes were warm.

When it came time to go on the bench, Judge Brett lifted his calf-length gown in the chambers and confided: "Look, no pants!"

Justices Dick Jones and John C. Powell won the resulting discussion, 2-1. Brett wore his britches in court.

Hot Asphalt Kills Woman, Burns Child In Truck Accident

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ten tons of scalding asphalt poured over a young mother and her year-old baby yesterday when an out-of-control dump truck overturned, spilling its steaming load into their convertible.

Mrs. Leonora Kunz, 31, was fatally burned. Her son Andrew, with third degree burns over most of his body, is in critical condition.

Policemen and bystanders freed the mother and the child by dipping the asphalt away with bare hands.

The truck driver, Frank Wilmoth, told police his brakes failed and when he turned abruptly trying to halt his runaway vehicle it turned over on top of Mrs. Kunz' car. Wilmoth suffered only cuts and bruises.
